HEW's Review Favors Board

Sedalia School District 200 has been cleared of discrimination as charged by the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), it was reported at Tuesday's meeting of the board of education.

Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, told the board he received a letter Tuesday from HEW hearing examiner Thomas J. Pope, indicating that his "finding is in favor of the board." The letter was dated last Friday.

A hearing held May 27 in Kansas City was the result of HEW's mid-January charge of segregation in the Sedalia school system and subsequent orders for immediate corrective action.

Failure to comply, HEW told the board at the time, could result in the loss of all federal funds.

Pope's finding in effect ruled against HEW's charge that the school system is purposely discriminating against Negroes, but did order that steps be taken to eliminate the "racially identifiable" school in Sedalia, namely Hubbard.

Wednesday Dr. Norris said Pope's order did not have the same authoritative impact of a court order and was not binding on the board. He said it could be regarded more in the nature of a suggestion.

The main effect of the ruling is that existing programs will continue to receive federal funds. Nothing was said in the letter about funds for new programs, Norris said.

Federal funds for any additional programs in the school district were frozen at the time the federal segregation charge was filed last January.

Norris indicated, however, that he may resume work on a learning disabilities program for the district which was discontinued when it was learned federal funds would not be available.

Pope's ruling is subject to HEW review and possible future action should objections be filed by either HEW or the school district. Norris said it was unlikely the district would take such action.

The letter was clear on several facets of the case. Pope ruled HEW had not taken "reasonable steps to secure voluntary compliance" with its orders to desegregate, nor had it provided a workable program through which the school system could have eliminated the alleged problem.

Pope also maintained in his findings that HEW failed to "sustain the burden of proof" in its charge that the system has violated the 14th Amendment and Title VI of the Civil Rights Act.

The ruling also said no child was being deprived of federally-funded programs on the basis of race or color.

It was also ordered in the finding that all federal funds in use by the system be continued, including those allocated through HEW.

Pope did, however, rule that board and HEW officials should confer immediately to determine a method of eliminating the Hubbard School issue either through the abolition of the school or through introduction of white students beyond what would be considered "token integration."

The ruling allows HEW to file a second charge in the future if the system fails to comply with agreed upon methods of eliminating the problem. HEW was also given a 20-day period in which to file exceptions to the ruling. The ruling also allowed a 20-day period for the school system to reply to any appeal made by HEW.

Finally, Pope held the ruling to be subject to review, if necessary.

Upward Bound

Plan Assistance Program

By KEITH OWEN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

With its desegregation worries apparently over, the Sedalia Board of Education Tuesday night voted to subsidize a local effort in cooperation with project Upward Bound, a remedial education program to assist students preparing for college.

The Rev. Glen Nelson, Jr., addressed the board and explained the basic purpose of the program and the problems that have come up locally.

Explains Program

Harry N. Browder, director of Title I programs in the school system, explained Upward Bound is designed "to orient economically deprived children, black or white, who have college potential and who can benefit from remedial" educational work.

According to Mr. Nelson, the project is being conducted at Lincoln University in Jefferson City and 40 Sedalia students attended the program Saturday.

He said the problem arises because transportation costs are not adequately covered by the federally-funded program. Upward Bound allows only 10 cents a mile and $2 per hour for a bus driver, while the cheapest arrangement found thus far has involved charges of 20 cents per mile and $3 per hour for the driver, Mr. Nelson said.

Grant Subsidy

The board voted to allow a maximum subsidy of $25 per Saturday be implemented to continue the program. The subsidy is intended to cover the difference between the federally-provided funds and the actual cost of transporting students to the university, it was noted.

Browder pointed out that less expensive arrangements may be possible. Mr. Nelson said he just wanted to be sure the program would continue, noting he thought a need for it existed. Browder agreed the program is worthwhile and said he will look into it further.

Jim Hurst thanked the board in behalf of the Sedalia Junior Football League for the use of Jennie Jaynes Stadium during the past few months of the league's season. He requested the league be allowed to use the facilities again next year under an arrangement similar to this year's in which games were scheduled not to conflict with school activities. Hurst also noted the league pays all utilities during use of the stadium.

When it was pointed out that the opening of the new junior high school may have an effect on the operation of the program, it was agreed that the school board and the football league's executive board should meet to discuss plans for a non-conflicting arrangement. The potential problem discussed pertains to the fact that the league's program involves seventh grade students who will attend the junior high school. Whether the football programs should be left as they are, combined or changed in other ways will be the topic of the meeting, it was indicated.

Word of Appreciation

The board received a letter from Armin Ciersdorff, president of the Sedalia Community Education Association, expressing appreciation in behalf of the CEA for the "board's efforts in the wage-price freeze turmoil."

The board ratified the acceptance of a bid for a dishwasher, tables and a sink for Striped College from the Ken Orr Supply Co. in the amount of $2,152. Dr. Norris revealed the low bid of $2,014.84 was from Rose Supply Co., but the delivery date difference coupled with delivery and quality problems encountered with Rose in the past indicated the Orr firm offered the better bid.

The board also voted to pay half the cost of contracting with Dave Wells, Warrensburg, to spend three days a week with the school system's learning disabilities class at the Children's Therapy Center.

According to Dr. Norris, Wells is currently a candidate for a master's degree in the field at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, and will be paid transportation costs of 10 cents per mile. The center agreed to pay the other half of the cost.

Accept Low Bid

The low bid of $780.72 from United Lighting Equipment Co. for several light bulbs was awarded by the board. Also bidding were Atkins-McCawley Chemical, $788; American Electric, $788.04; Cash Hardware, $846; Tallman and Co., $864.04; George Clay for Dura-Test, $3,131.28, and Sedalia Steel and Wire, $830.08.

The board also heard bids on several business machines. It was decided that assistant superintendent Dr. Richard Kimble should examine the various models offered by each bidder and secure the advice of the business teachers who would be using the machines.

The resignation of Wendy Jenkins Smith, remedial reading teacher at Washington School, was accepted by the board.

The board also voted to renew

Rotary Anniversary

In Lamm's Honor

Begin Scholarship Fund

The Sedalia Rotary Club honored its only living charter member and commemorated its 50th anniversary in a lasting way with the establishment of a Donald S. Lamm, Sr., Educational Scholarship Tuesday night at a banquet in celebration of the occasion held in the Smith-Cotton High School cafeteria. Nearly 350 Rotarians, wives, members of their families and friends attended.

The announcement of the scholarship was made by Donald S. Barnes, club president, who said the award will be made each year to a promising student in his second year of study at State Fair Community College. A requirement, according to Barnes, was that the student demonstrate an aptitude for academic work in his first year and have a need for assistance in order to complete a four-year college training program.

A certificate announcing the scholarship was presented to Mrs. Lamm in the absence of her husband, whose health would not permit his attendance. Mrs. Lamm said the establishment of the scholarship would come as a surprise to her husband, who, she said, "lives and practices the ideals of Rotary." Seated with Mrs. Lamm at the head table was her son, Donald S. Lamm, Jr., an instructor at State Fair Community College.

Barnes also recognized Arthur M. Hoffman, who became a Rotary club member three weeks after the founding of the club in 1921. He was presented with a plastic block which encased his Rotary button which he had worn to meetings over the 50 years of his membership.

Aubrey Case, immediate past club president, was the master of ceremonies in the absence of William C. Hopkins, who has been hospitalized for the past 10 days following a heart attack. The executive committee responsible for arrangements for the anniversary observance was composed of William C. Hopkins, chairman; Kenneth U. Love, Harry W. Walch, Lawrence Barnett and Merrill V. Strombom. A resolution commending Chairman Hopkins for his organizational work in connection with the anniversary observance was presented to his wife, Dorothy, by the club president.

Dr. William Bradshaw, Clinton, Rotary District 607 governor, presented the club a golden anniversary plaque. In the presentation he stated, "Be proud to be about the job of helping others. This club has come a long way, but much is to be done in the area of learning to live together in peace and harmony and in the achieving of worthwhile goals."

The speaker of the evening was Chester

Inspect Bothwell Lodge

Boonville Officials Tour Bothwell Lodge

James Conway, board chairman of State Training Schools for Boys, Boonville, and three Sedalians Wednesday, toured the Bothwell Lodge and estate north of Sedalia to determine its suitability for a juvenile delinquents' rehabilitation center.

After the tour Conway told The Democrat-Capital that he thought the building was "magnificent and extremely well constructed," with "adequate quarters for supervisory staff."

Accompanying Conway were Henry Salveter, a trustee of Bothwell Lodge; Frank E. Meyer, circuit judge; and Bill Hall, industrial development director.

Conway said that his tour was the first step of an exploratory study of the Bothwell Lodge facilities by state officials and experts in juvenile rehabilitation work.

He said that "in the near future" a team of experts from the University of Missouri-Columbia plan to inspect the estate in addition to tours by juvenile rehabilitation experts from Boonville and Chillicothe.

The idea of using Bothwell Lodge as one of several group-homes for youths with less severe disciplinary problems than those at the Training School for Boys in Boonville was originated last month by Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland. He suggested to the Missouri Board of Training Schools that the building on the 75-acre Bothwell estate can be renovated for less than $100,000. He also said that the facility could house between 25 and 40 boys.

Conway said details of how the building can best be used as a rehabilitation center will be formulated only after the University of Missouri team and other experts have toured the estate.

Besides Bothwell Lodge, the estate has two auxiliary buildings which can be used as staff quarters.

Conway said that at this stage it is not certain if the estate is best suited for a boys or girls rehabilitation center. The present need in the state points more toward a girls' center, since the only existing one is located in Chillicothe, he said. Juvenile

Set Services To Highlight Veterans Day

Col. Floyd J. Pugh, commander of the 351st Combat Support Group, will be the guest speaker for memorial services to highlight Veterans Day activities in Sedalia Thursday morning at the Pettis County Courthouse.

Col. Pugh's address will follow the Veterans' Parade through the downtown area at 10 a.m. The parade begins at Seventh and Ohio, goes north on Ohio to Main, west on Main to Osage, south on Osage to Fifth and then east to the courthouse.

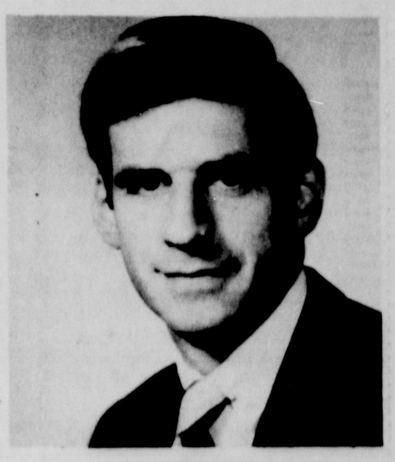

Various area high school bands, color guards from both active military and veterans' organizations, guest dignitaries, saddle clubs, pony carts, stunt cars, new cars and vintage cares are scheduled to participate in the parade.

The memorial services include an invocation and benediction lead by the Rev. Orval F. Woolery and the Rev. Charles Pfeiffer. After Col. Pugh's address, state and local officials are scheduled to speak.

Placement of a wreath by an American Gold Star Mother will cap these ceremonies.

Immediately following the courthouse services, a dedication ceremony for new flagpole lights at the Little Red School House will be held. The guest speaker for this event is Mr. Woolery.

Activities at the school consist of a joint ceremony by members of Pettis County American Legion Post 16, Pettis County Post 2591 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Pettis County Historical Society.

Danforth To Speak At Dinner

More than 200 persons are expected to attend a Republican fund-raising dinner at 7 p.m. Thursday at Maxine's Gourmet House.

One of the key speakers for the $10-a-plate affair is Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth. Other speakers scheduled to attend include John T. Russell, Republican House floor leader, and Rep. Ray James, state chairman of the Young Republicans.

All proceeds from the affair will go toward the state-wide campaign to elect a GOP majority in the Missouri House in 1972.

Tickets may be obtained at the door, it was reported by the Pettis County GOP Club, sponsor of the dinner.

Officials Are Befuddled By Emergency Employment Act Problems

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Conceding that provisions of the Emergency Employment Act present a hodgepodge of agreements and assurances, federal officials here indicate they are befuddled by the snail's pace shown by areas of four Midwest states in filling jobs under the act.

On Aug. 8, less than a month after the act was passed, nearly $28 million was allocated for the plan in the federal region consisting of Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas. Officials of the Labor Department's regional Manpower Administration hope to eventually fill 5,136 jobs under the act.

Neal Hadsell, deputy regional administrator, said Tuesday that 2,470 of the federally funded positions had been filled by the end of last week.

"The presumption was that the jobs would be filled promptly," Hadsell said. "There are some cases where this perhaps can't be done for administrative reasons, but we started on the premise that agents signed these contracts in good faith."

"Agents," in this case, are cities or states that are acting in agreement with the federal government. After the allocation was made to the region, manpower officials in Kansas City apportioned funds to areas according to their population and unemployment rates.

Thus, Wichita, Kan., deeply affected by cutbacks in the aerospace and aircraft industries, drew a grant of $2.44 million, about $5,000, less than Kansas City, which has more than twice Wichita's population.

The cities or counties — or the states themselves — presented plans to the federal officials to indicate how many jobs they thought they could fill with the money.

Figures released in mid-October showed that many cities in the four states had been aggressive in meeting the job quotas so they could gain the full allocations available to them.

Some were especially disappointing to Hadsell and his fellow administrators.

Waterloo, Iowa, for example, had been allocated $298,600 for 57 jobs. But by mid-October only three positions were filled.

Nearly $3 million was allocated for Kansas City, which indicated it could use the funds for 427 positions. By mid-October 24 were filled.

The most glaring example of dragging heels, federal spokesmen said, was in outstate Nebraska where $1.5 million was earmarked for 300 jobs — two of which were filled by mid-October.

"That figure has since increased by about 400 per cent," said Richard Miskisnyus, assistant regional manpower administrator. "I understand they've filled eight positions."

Federal officials have been satisified with progress made under the act in Lincoln and Omaha, so why the disparity in the balance of Nebraska?

"Nebraska has 10,000 governing agencies which would be eligible for funds," Miskisnyus explained. "Omaha and Lincoln are speaking for themselves, but the state is the agent acting for all these sub-agents."

"Then there are problems as far as some legislative requirements are concerned," added Roy Williams, another manpower specialist. "Some of these local areas need second and third readings before they get approval."

However, the job quotas were provided by the local agents — a fact which led Hadsell and his associates to think the positions would be promptly filled.

"We tell them from the state the purpose is to get people on the job," Hadsell said. "And the White House thought it was important enough that the President urged areas to get their quotas filled as soon as possible."

"It is," Williams said, "a program of transitional employment in areas of high unemployment. We don't expect it to make any significant reduction in unemployment. But look at the multiplication factor. It provides services in communities that might not have the revenue for such jobs as street cleaning, park department work — even police work — and it's a shot in the arm to these communities."

Every 60 days, Miskisnyus explained, the governing agencies send invoices to the regional manpower headquarters in Kansas City indicating how much money they will require during the next two months.

Second Bid For Council Falls Short

The Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corporation met Tuesday night for a second time to select an advisory council to assist the main organization in determining policies and programs for the Pettis county area. Again they failed to do so.

As was the case last month, there were too few persons attending to adequately represent low income families. It is considered essential they attend since the council will be planning programs to aid the impoverished in this area.

Bob Schultz, deputy director of the agency, told the Democrat-Capital that the small gathering did result in a good discussion period in which answers to the question of the poor attendance and apparent lack of interest in the Sedalia area were offered.

The first problem discussed was an old one with the poverty agency, that of poor public relations concerning its work and what services it can provide for all income groups as well as the lower income people.

According to agency director Max Sutherland, although this situation is regrettable the agency feels they "would rather spend the money on the people who need it than on educating those who do not."

The second topic under discussion was the lack of motivation of Sedalians to serve on the council and toward the poverty programs in general. The apathy applies not only to the low income but all area citizens, Schultz said.

The staff members of the various programs operating in this area will be canvassing on an individual basis the rest of this month for referrals to serve on the council. Their hope is to find not only those who will serve but those who would act to create realistic and strong programs in Pettis county.

A meeting for this purpose is expected early next month.

Petition Filed In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A petition asking damages of $400,000 and an injunction against further harassment was filed in the U.S. District Court Tuesday by a man against six officers and the chief of police in Independence.

The suit was filed by Patrick Dearinger, 20, of Independence.

Named defendants were George D. Owen, chief of police, and officers Robert Jackson, Alphonse D. Hainer, Thomas W. Alexander, Burl B. Sherwood, Robert S. Gaiser, and Edward Comer.

The suit, filed by the Legal Aid and Defender Society of Independence, alleges the defendants violated Dearinger's rights by arresting him at least five times without warrant or probable cause and in which no charges were filed.

Volpe Praise For President

ST. LOUIS (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon was characterized by a fellow Republican Tuesday night as a man of humble beginnings who understands the hopes and dreams of America.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe, speaking at a $500-a-plate "Salute to the President" dinner in St. Louis County, accused the news media of not portraying Nixon's true character.

Nixon is "an inward man, as some have written," Volpe said.

The President is "inward in the sense that he is his own man, but not an inward man as regards his goal for the nation, his dreams for the country, his hopes and aspirations for a world of peace," Volpe said.

Nixon understands the individual "who wants to bear the responsibility for his own place in society without some big brother in Washington or the state capital telling him what to do," Volpe said.

"I have never met a man in whom I had more confidence, more faith and more trust," the secretary said.

The dinner, one of 20 held simultaneously across the nation, raised more than $100,000 for state and national Republican treasuries.

Nixon addressed the dinner audience via closed-circuit television.

About 100 young people marched outside Greenbriar Hills Country Club where the dinner was held.

Rainfall Causing Problems

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Below normal rainfall the past eight months is causing some of the lowest water levels in lakes in the Ozarks since 1960.

A spokesman for the National Weather Service at Springfield said, "The total rainfall this year to date is 29.16 inches.

"We are, as of now, more than six inches short of normal, and the average for both November and December totals only 4.95 inches."

Lakes connected by the White River—Bull Shoals, Table Rock, Beaver and Norfolk—report some of the lowest water levels since following the extremely dry summer of 1960.

However, Lake Taneycomo, which is between Table Rock and Bull Shoals, is comparatively stable because the lake's huge generators pour several times as much water in Taneycomo as is released by two other generators.

Tributaries of the White River do not provide enough water to equal that drawn off for daily electric power production.

Demands of the Beaver Lake Dam have lowered the lake's level more than 19 feet. The drawdown at Table Rock lowered the lake more than nine feet.

Television Is Helpful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Do Not Fold, Spindle or Mutilate," ABC's "Movie of the Week" adaptation of Doris Miles Disney's thriller, managed Tuesday night to translate some suspense from the book to the small screen and even improved on the principal characters.

It was basically a comedy—four little old ladies for a lark subscribing to a computer dating service and making up a description of a 23-year-old blonde as the subscriber.

The service turned up as a date, a violent, insane man. The women's prank turned into murder—a call girl he mistook for the fictitious girl.

Most interesting aspect of the 90 minutes was the appearances of four distinguished actresses. Helen Hayes as the ringleader of the mischief makers, was a merry sprite fond of double old-fashioneds and ahead of the police in the hunt for the killer. Myrna Loy had a less attractive part as her down-to-earth sister. Sylvia Sidney and Mildred Natwick tagged along.

The beginning was more sinister than funny, but the wind-up with the ladies holding the murderer at bay with a hat pin, a pocket comb and a paper weight was truly amusing.

NBC, which announced Monday a temporary realignment of some of its programs, revealed on Tuesday the cancellation of five programs after about 13 episodes each: "Sarge," "The Funny Side," "The Partners," "The Good Life" and "The D. A." All were struck down by low Nielsen ratings.

NBC will replace "The D. A." with "Sanford and Son," its answer to CBS's "All in the Family."

"Sanford and Son," to appear Friday nights beginning in January, involves a Los Angeles junk dealer and his partner-son.

Title roles will be played by black actors Redd Foxx and Demond Wilson. A comedy series about junk dealers is almost as big a gamble as one about a bigot.

An hour-long action show, "Emergency" will take over the Saturday evening spots to be vacated by "The Partners" and "The Good Life." This Jack Webb-produced show concerns the operations of the Los Angeles County paramedical rescue squad.

Replacing "Sarge" and "The Funny Side," soon to be in tandem on Tuesday nights, will be a weekly two hours of special programs, a mix of drama, variety, children's programs, news department documentaries and actuality shows.

Couple Is Killed In Car Collision

TROY, Kan. (AP) — Jeremiah J. Colbert, 61, and his wife, Sarah Belle Colbert, of St. Joseph, Mo., were killed Tuesday night when their car crashed into the rear of a stalled grain truck.

The Doniphan County sheriff's office said the Colbert car was headed southeast on Kansas 7 between Iowa Point and Sparks when it came over a hill and slammed into the truck.

The truck driver had gone for assistance.

Sparks is about five miles northwest of Troy.

Pesticide Control Bill Environment Woe Source

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists, whipped in the House, are turning to the Senate in efforts to mix more potent provisions into a bill to control pesticides.

By shouts, stand-up head counts, and voting-marches down the aisle Tuesday, the House rejected a series of amendments offered by Rep. John G. Dow, D-N.Y. The bill, he charged, is "essentially weaker than the present law and not nearly as protective of our environment as such a bill ought to be."

The House, going along with the product offered by its Agriculture Committee, agreed to one major revision—endorsed by Committee Chairman W.R. Poage, D-Tex.—to let states impose whatever additional restrictions they wish on all pesticides.

After approving that amendment by 167 to 56, the House sent the Nixon administration-endorsed bill to the Senate, 288 to 91. Poage said the bill contained vast, new powers for the Environmental Protection Agency.

The House rejected an amendment offered by Rep. John R. Rarick, D-La., that would have directed the President to bar importation of any commodities from nations which do not have at least equal restrictions on pesticides.

Rarick's move lost by 43 to 36 after Poage—who said he personally favored the idea—urged the House to turn it down because he said Nixon would veto the whole bill if the provision was included.

Dow, supported by such groups as the Sierra Club and Friends of the Earth, fought for several changes that he viewed as vital to strong environmental protection legislation.

Dow contended, without success, that anyone who feels harmed should be allowed to appeal EPA's orders—although the committee bill limits such court challenges of such decisions to the chemical makers with a direct economic interest in the outcome.

Spainhower Decision Nearing

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former Rep. James I. Spainhower, Marshall Democrat, says he will decide before the end of November whether to get into the already crowded Democratic race for state treasurer.

He was quoted by the Jefferson City News and Tribune as saying he was convinced he could win the Democratic primary next August and go on to win in the November general election.

Reports have been going around that Democratic leaders have been seeking a qualified man to beat State Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland, now House appropriations chairman. Spainhower said he has talked with U.S. Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton and Jackson County Judge George W. Lehr about the race.

There also have been reports that efforts are being made to get another Jackson County Judge, Former Liquor Control Supervisor Harry Wiggins, to withdraw from the Democratic race for treasurer.

Spainhower is an ordained minister who served in the House from 1963 through 1970. He recently has been legislative representative of the four private medical schools in Missouri, seeking state subsidies for their efforts to increase the number of medical students.

Besides Wiggins and Cantrell, these Democrats also are seeking the nomination for treasurer:

Former State Rep. Donald L. Carpenter of St. Louis, younger brother of Milton Carpenter, former treasurer and revenue director; Hunter Phillips of Kansas City, former chairman of the state Tax Commission, and L. E. Morris of Jefferson City, perennial candidate for high public office.

Clarify Sedalia's Assessment Share

The city's share of the $70,000 property tax assessment of Cablevision, Inc., 600 South Osage, determined Tuesday by the Missouri State Tax Commission, will be $40,000, according to Pettis County Assessor Jerry Trotter.

Trotter said Wednesday the assessment share was determined by him in consideration of the fact that the bulk of the firm's operation was within the city limits.

It was reported in Tuesday's Democrat and Wednesday's Capital that the city's share would be approximately $7,500, based on previous information which revealed the city would be able to collect on about 13 per cent of the total assessment.

Trotter said the new assessment arrangement was earlier verified as appropriate action by the tax commission.

Two Motors Stolen

John Hammons, Route 2, an employe of LaCuma Builders, 2014 West Main, told police Tuesday two 1½ horsepower electric motors, valued at $200, had been stolen.

Hammons said the motors were last seen Sept. 18 and their absence had not been noticed until Tuesday.

Air Base Helps Sedalia Pilot Make Safe Landing

Dan Doty Jr., 1001 Leone, president of A-1 Mid-State Storage Co., avoided a near-tragedy Tuesday afternoon when a faulty landing gear on his single-engine airplane forced him to make a belly landing at Whiteman AFB.

Wednesday, almost 24 hours after the experience, Doty said, "I just can't say enough about the people at the base. They were very helpful and extremely cooperative. As soon as I told them I had an emergency situation they had their emergency vehicles ready and foamed 1,500 feet of the runway for me."

Doty said his plane had been in Warrensburg for repairs and that he and Leroy Young, a mechanic for Y & B Aircraft Co., Warrensburg, decided to check the plane in the air.

Problems with the landing gear prompted Doty to take the plane to Warrensburg in the first place and shortly after he took the plane into the air Tuesday "I could tell something was the matter."

Doty said the landing gear came up about 20 per cent and then wouldn't budge one way or the other. "The emergency crank wouldn't work either," he said. He made several passes over the Warrensburg Airport to confirm the problem and then called Whiteman for permission to land.

With his landing gear still partially down, Doty touched down on the foamed section of runway. "That was when the gear came up all the way and we skidded about 400 feet on the plane's belly. It wasn't a rough landing at all and it looks like the damage to the plane won't be too extensive," he told The Democrat-Capital.

Doty said he kept the plane in the air from 30 to 45 minutes after learning of the problem in order to use up fuel. "We had only five gallons left when we landed," he said.

Three People Are Injured In Accidents

Three persons received minor injuries in three separate accidents in Sedalia Tuesday.

At 8:08 a.m. an accident occurred at the intersection of 10th and Thompson Blvd. Mrs. Frank Stetzenbach, 311 East 25th, a passenger in a car driven by her husband, was injured slightly. The nature of her injuries is not known.

The accident apparently occurred as a 1953 Ford driven by Frank Stetzenbach, 67, was going east on 10th and collided with a 1967 Chevrolet driven north on Thompson Blvd. by Judith Elaine Talbott, 30, 604 East 12th. Both cars were extensively damaged.

William Dewayne Wiser, 28, 620 North Quincy, suffered a laceration on his right eyelid as a result of an accident in the 900 block on East Fifth at 12:46 a.m. Tuesday.

Wiser was treated and later released from Bothwell Hospital.

The accident apparently occurred as the Wiser vehicle, 1964 Oldsmobile, veered out of control and struck a parked 1960 Ford owned by Carl R. McNish, 17, 228 South Vermont.

The front of the Oldsmobile and the rear of the McNish vehicle were damaged.

James C. Hudson, 24, 508 East Fourth, suffered minor injuries in a one-car accident in the 400 block of East Broadway at 11:15 p.m. Tuesday. He was treated and later released from Bothwell Hospital.

The accident apparently occurred as Hudson's 1965 Chevrolet was heading west on Broadway and veered off the side of the road and struck a utility pole.

The Chevrolet had damage to the right front.

Mayor Is Fined

Jones forfeited his $25 fine in police court Wednesday.

Some Items Taken From Stolen Car

A 1971 Chevrolet Impala, taken from the Thompson Hills Shopping Center parking lot about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, was recovered a short time later by the Pettis County Sheriff's Department and the Highway Patrol.

The car was recovered from a rural driveway north of West 16th Street Road, near Walnut Hills.

Leased from Mike O'Connor Chevrolet by William E. Turns, the car contained over 30 transistor and table model radios and golfing equipment in the back seat and trunk.

Trooper Charles Pieper said the items in the back seat of the car were missing, but the trunk has not been entered. A list of the missing items was not available.

Lauck, who in earlier years was the character "Lum" in the Lum and Abner radio series. This was Lauck's second visit to Sedalia and he said he saw much improvement since he spoke at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet here 11 years ago.

Following a humorous opening, he expressed concern and alarm at the manner in which the American people face the nation's problems today. A staunch advocate of the free enterprise system, he noted the nation's trend toward socialism, which he said could lead to communism. "You don't vote to go communistic, you suddenly are engulfed with it," he stated.

He summarized his talk with, "Let's insist the government put us down and let us walk and accept our challenges so we can continue to work under the free enterprise system which has made us the great country we are today. The government can't support the populous, the populous must support the government. The choice is still ours, and I believe we will find our way back to our big, broad free way."

Chairman Case introduced the officers of the club and their wives who were seated at the head table. They were, Firmin Boul, secretary, and Mrs. Boul; Robert Hartzler, treasurer, and his wife; Robert Phillips, second vice-president and his daughters, Janice and Lucy; Charles Hofheins, first vice-president and his wife. Morris, Columbia, and their wives were introduced.

A telegram from longtime Rotary International Secretary George Means, congratulating the club on its anniversary, was read by President Barnes.

Entertainment for the evening was furnished by The Swinging Roadrunners of State Fair Community College. They presented song and dance numbers under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader and Miss Joan Baker. Piano dinner music was by Mrs. Keith Maynard.

Nearing Big Vote Over Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Temporary life for foreign aid headed for a vote in the House today as the Senate continued work on a new and smaller assistance program.

The House leadership urged foreign aid opponents to save their cuts for a regular bill and to approve a continuing resolution—funding the program on a temporary basis past the Nov. 15 expiration date.

But some feared the House may not go along with the request. The foreign aid program was left in limbo Oct. 29 when the Senate voted to end more than two decades of foreign assistance.

On Tuesday, the Senate began debate on a $2.3-billion program—a $1.1-billion economic assistance measure and a military aid program of just under $1.2 billion.

Meanwhile, President Nixon said Tuesday evening that foreign aid must be continued.

Addressing Republican fund-raising dinners via closed-circuit television from New York and Chicago, Nixon said:

"If the United States at this particular time should determine that it will discontinue its programs of mutual assistance for countries abroad ... it can only mean that the world will become much more unstable, that the dangers of war in the world will greatly increase and that the United States will no longer be a world power respected in the world."

The continuing resolution before the House would keep foreign aid, defense and the antipoverty programs going at their present levels until Congress adjourns after passing regular appropriations bills for them.

But Senate Democratic leaders have vowed to block the House continuing resolution despite an appeal from Secretary of State William P. Rogers that payrolls cannot be met past Nov. 15 without it.

The Senate's timetable for work on the two regular foreign aid bills called for final action by the end of the week.

Even if the Senate acted that fast, the House—where leaders want a $3-billion program—and Senate almost certainly could not work out a final new foreign aid authorization bill before the program expires.

Predicting Harris Will Drop Attempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic sources said today Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma is planning to drop his brief bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

These sources said fund-raising problems were the major factor in a decision they said Harris was expected to announce later today.

Chaplain Recalls Operation

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The former chaplain of the Americal Division testified today that "not even in confession" did the troops that assaulted My Lai indicate anything had gone amiss in the operation.

Col. Francis R. Lewis, now stationed in Thailand, testified as a defense witness in the court-martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson, who is charged in three counts with concealing the March 16, 1968 massacre.

Lewis said he questioned the commander of the assault forces, the late Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, after receiving a complaint about unnecessary killing of civilians from a subordinate chaplain.

"Not at any time did he (Barker) ever report anything about this operation that would lead me to believe this operation was a bad show," Lewis said.

Lewis said he was initially approached by Carl Edward Creswell, now a minister in Kansas, who told him of a helicopter pilot's report of indiscriminate killings. He said he questioned a half-dozen other chaplains in his command whether they had heard anything similar to what Creswell reported.

"At no time did I get any response, or substantiation of the complaint that Chaplain Creswell brought to my attention," Lewis said.

Lewis' testimony and that of another witness, Lt. Col. Gary E. Langston, was designed to support the defense contention that Henderson and other top officers in Vietnam did not know the extent of the killings in the South China sea village.

On Tuesday, the chief American advisers to the South Vietnamese government in the My Lai area said none of the numerous sources even hinted that a massacre had taken place.

The lead-off witness Tuesday told the court-martial there was no word from any organization "which was preoccupied with human welfare. They would normally raise the point with me if they thought something improper was going on."

Viet Cong Attacking Phnom Penh

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacked the Phnom Penh airport and a radio transmitting station near the Cambodian capital early today, and the Cambodian command said at least 25 persons were killed and about 30 wounded.

In Vietnam, a politician reported under consideration for the premiership was assassinated in Saigon, five Americans died in a helicopter crash, a booby trap killed two U.S. soldiers near Hue, and U.S. planes made their 74th attack of the year inside North Vietnam.

The two attacks in Cambodia were coordinated. About fifty 100-pound rockets hit the military airport shortly after midnight, and at the same time sappers moving behind a rocket barrage assaulted the transmitting station nine miles northwest of the airport.

A spokesman for the Cambodian command, Lt. Col. Am Rong, said at least six persons, including five women, were killed in the shelling of the airport and others were killed at the transmitting station.

The politician assassinated in Saigon was Prof. Nguyen Van Bong, chairman of the anti-Communist Progressive Nationalist Movement. Two pounds of hidden plastic explosive blew up his automobile as he was going from his office to his home at noon.

A bodyguard and the chauffeur were also killed, and eight Vietnamese were wounded, including a second bodyguard and seven bystanders.

Bong, 42, was director of a training institute for civil servants. His party, which he once described as "loyal opposition" to President Nguyen Van Thieu, won 15 of the 159 seats in the lower house of the National Assembly last August.

Informed sources said Thieu was considering offering Bong the post of premier or another high cabinet position in an attempt to get broader political support.

In the war action, the U.S. helicopter crashed as it was trying to re-establish radio contact with a platoon of 30 South Vietnamese militiamen who had been overrun by the Viet Cong about 14 miles southeast of Saigon.

DEMOCRAT-CAPITAL SURVEY

Question: The City Council recently passed an ordinance setting up an Environmental Quality Commission in Sedalia. Do you think there is a need for such a commission in this community?

Any comments and signed letters would also be appreciated.

China-U.N. Issue Draws Only Little Local Interest

Although hotly debated nationally and internationally, the question of seating Communist China in the U.N. apparently created little interest among Sedalians, a Democrat-Capital survey revealed.

The response was so limited it was impossible to determine a trend. The question was: "Do you believe that the admission of Communist China to the United Nations is in the interest of world peace?" Four persons said they did and three answered "no."

One unidentified respondent based his views on purely religious grounds. Seeing admission of Red China as the starting point on the road to war, he voted "no" and wrote, "Only God almighty can now deliver us, the U.S.A...God will rain great hail stones...upon our enemies and deliver us."

Mrs. Elliott M. Braverman accompanied her "yes" vote with the opinion that "we cannot ignore the fact that 700-plus million of the world's population lives in the Peoples Republic of China. Through inclusion in the United Nations, it is hoped that we can normalize relations with the Peoples Republic of China and open the door to better understanding through communications."

She also felt that now was the time for the U.S. to "make every effort to encourage...the peaceful resolution of differences between the Peoples Republic of China, Taiwan and the rest of the non-Communist peoples."

The other responses were not accompanied by comment.

After three-and-a-half centuries, the United States whaling fleet will be beached by the end of the year.

Haircut Ordered For Defendant

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — A bearded and shaggy-haired defendant who appeared before Circuit Court Judge Douglas L.C. Jones for sentencing on a peace disturbance charge Tuesday was ordered to get a haircut and return to court Nov. 17 for sentencing.

Looking at David Martin Johnson, 20, of Ballwin, Mo., Judge Jones declared: "My son looks the same as you, but he's not in front of the bench. If he were, I'd give him the same order."

Johnson's attorney, Robert K. Spaulding, thanked the judge and said he and the youth's mother were happy with the decree.

"We couldn't even get him to comb his hair," the lawyer explained.

New Tax Levy Required

Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, told the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association Monday at Wesley United Methodist Church that an increase in the present school tax levy would be needed to enable the school system to staff the new junior high school. He could not say, however, how much of an increase would be required.

"A curriculum committee at Smith-Cotton High School is presently looking into this (the school system's needs), but no plans have been made yet," Norris told The Democrat-Capital Tuesday.

He indicated, however, that more teachers would be needed if the school system is to accomplish its goal of reducing the number of students per classroom. Establishing a kindergarten system, required by the State Department of Education, will also mean hiring more teachers, he said.

The school tax levy was last increased in 1970, when Sedalians voted approval of a $1,900,000 bond issue for the new junior high school at 19th and Ingram. That amounted to a 15-cent levy hike, bringing the school tax bill from $2.82 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.97.

Any future increases in the levy would have to be approved by voters in the school district, according to Pettis County Collector Raymond Wilder.

Further discussions concerning the new junior high school will be held in a series of meetings in Sedalia elementary schools beginning Wednesday and continuing through Nov. 22.

The meetings are designed to give Norris the opportunity to speak with parents in the district.

All meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the following schools: Jefferson, Wednesday; Washington, Thursday; Mark Twain, Nov. 15; Whittier, Nov. 16; Heber Hunt, Nov. 17; Horace Mann, Nov. 18; Hubbard, Nov. 22.

Residents Proud of School

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — Residents of isolated Ocracoke Island see their new one-room school as a step into modern education, not a step backwards in time.

All of the island's 68 school-age youngsters attend grades one through 12 in the new $100,000 juniper wood structure. The building has a central, common-use room and alcoves on four sides.

The faculty of five, including principal John R. Tucker, thinks its ungraded concept is an indication of progress.

Visitors, Tucker says, see confusion, "but there is a pattern of formality. It's taken the first few weeks to get accustomed to it."

Until last spring Ocracoke youngsters went to a five-room, frame school. There was one teacher for each three grades.

Now the 27 pupils in the first seven grades are in one area with two teachers, while the older youths are taught in two groups by three teachers.

Ocracoke's isolation has always limited the education of island youngsters. The sandy strip of land lies 75 miles off the North Carolina coast, across Pamlico Sound from the Hyde County seat of Swan Quarter.

The 540 persons who live on the four-mile-long island can reach the mainland only by ferry.

Scott Coble, Hyde County schools superintendent, said one parent told him his 9-year-old son had to be almost driven to school before the new building was erected, but this year he can't keep him away.

"In this situation it's the only way to go. Ocracoke is being brought up to date, really," Coble said.

"One large room in the center is the library. Around it are the classrooms. Students are free to move from the general room to the others to study, use audiovisual aids and the like," Tucker said.

He gave this explanation of study for pupils above the elementary grades:

A pupil selects the courses he is interested in, then selects material to be used from the school's collections.

The pupil and his teacher go over the program, make any adjustments necessary to comply with state rules, then list objectives to be reached within an agreed time limit.

"He and the teacher review the work at times to keep it on the track. If the objectives are accomplished within the period or ahead of time, the pupils is entitled to free time to read on related subjects," the principal said.

Mind Your Money

Bounty Hunters Nab Polluters

By PETER WEAVER

Q — Is it true that individual citizens can collect money by pointing out polluters to the government? — N.W.A., St. Louis, Mo.

A — Yes, you can collect up to one-half the fine imposed on water pollution violators, according to a law passed in 1899. This law requires an Army Corps of Engineers permit for anyone dumping wastes into "any tributary of any navigable water..." Hardly anybody has a permit.

You can get more information on how to catch polluters from the nearest U.S. attorney's office (call information under Federal Government in your phonebook). The U.S. attorney should have a printed checklist which gives tips on how to gather such evidence as samples of polluted water, photographs of the pollution and testimony from witnesses.

A number of individual citizens have already collected thousands of dollars as their share in pinpointing violators. There's one catch. Polluters are now scrambling to get permits and this will make it harder to catch them.

It's a good idea to check on permit applications to make sure regulations are being followed. Ask the nearest Army Corps of Engineers office to put you on their mailing list (check information under Federal Government in the telephone book).

Catching air polluters is more complicated. For expert guidance, you can get an "Air Pollution Manual" by sending $1.50 to: The National Resources Defense Council; 36 West 44th St.; New York, N.Y. 10036.

Q — Four years ago I bought an insurance policy from the National Casualty Co. My wife died of cancer and upon attempting to collect my insurance I was informed that her disease was not covered under the policy's "dread disease" list. This list contained such things as polio, smallpox and rabies. Aren't these diseases almost extinct? — C.E.T., Somerville, Mass.

A — The policy you bought was extremely limited. To collect death benefits under the dread disease clause, the odds against you were many millions to one.

For example, the last death caused by smallpox in this country was back in 1949. There were only two cases of rabies last year and only 33 polio cases. When insurance policies seem to be "bargains" (your policy cost less than $10 a year), you have to read the fine print to see if all the limitations make it worthwhile.

Severely limited policies are quite legal but they tend to lull customers into a false sense of security. If you need health insurance, get into a group policy that covers common ailments. If you want life insurance, get a relatively inexpensive, five-year, renewable term policy. Look for the limitations and ask questions before you buy.

Q — How effective are one-room air-filtering machines? Can they relieve hay fever? — S. W., Culver City, Calif.

A — Electronic air filters can help those who suffer from allergies such as hay fever by filtering out pollen, dust and other airborne irritants.

Electronic room filters cost between $100 and $200. To be effective, they should operate in a closed environment. This means you must keep windows and doors shut. If you have heating air ducts, a centrally located filter can be more effective. These cost from $250 to $450.

TAKE NOTE — Boxes, lawn tools and other heavy cargo carried in station wagons can injure or even kill passengers during a sudden stop. You can get a specially designed webbing (around $34) to keep cargo in place by writing: Rose Manufacturing Co.; 2700 W. Barberry Pl.; Denver, Col. 80204.

Contains Vital Statistics

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — John Stables, a former Scotland Yard detective, now spends much of his time examining crumbling marriage and birth certificates in musty English archives.

Derek Metcalfe, once a New Zealand policeman, treks to remote Polynesian villages to record on tape the recitation of family histories by old men of the village.

Both men are among 14 genealogical field representatives for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), whose collection of genealogical records, headquartered in Salt Lake City, is the largest in the world.

"We're still involved in a huge detective hunt," says Stables. "But now we're searching for dead ones, instead of live ones."

Since 1894, the Genealogical Society of the Mormon Church has been gathering millions of volumes of birth and marriage records, wills, land grants, parish registers, court proceedings and other vital statistics from every corner of the globe.

The society has divided the world into nine different areas, each of which is covered by trained genealogists.

"The genealogists go to churches, libraries, record depositories, and state and national archives to locate the records in their area," says Theodore Burton, church official directly in charge of the society. "Then they arrange for the documents to be microfilmed."

"Our eventual object is to gather together microfilms of all the vital statistics we can find in the world," he says.

The society employs about 500 people and spends more than $5 million annually in its work.

Tracing family trees is important to Mormons because of the church doctrine urging baptism of dead family members.

According to Mormon teaching, persons who have died without being baptized in the Mormon faith may be baptized posthumously through a proxy, who must be a living relative.

Mormons collect records of their families as far back as they can trace them.

When all members of a deceased family have been assembled into a family unit, then living family members also may participate in a ceremony sealing themselves to their dead relatives.

This, according to church doctrine, enables the entire family tree to be physically reunited in heaven.

Genealogical studies also are popular with non-Mormons, who daily come by the hundreds to the church's genealogical library here to pour over microfilms of family records.

Three-quarters of a million rolls of microfilm—equivalent to nearly three million printed books of 300 pages each—are available in the library for public use.

Also on the shelves are six million printed family genealogies, genealogical periodicals, and histories of towns, counties, states and countries.

"More and more people are taking up genealogical research as a hobby," Burton says. "It becomes a fascinating treasure hunt. Some people get so wrapped up it becomes an obsession."

The library receives about 14,500 new rolls of microfilm a month—the products of some 60 cameras which are daily filming documents throughout the world.

Guarded by grilled bank-vault doors and protected beneath hundreds of feet of solid granite, the microfilm is kept in six caverns.

Only a direct nuclear hit could endanger the records, church officials claim.

Taxpayers To Feel 'Bite' in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of individual taxpayers will find their take-home pay dropping in January despite income tax cuts if a $16-billion tax-reduction bill approved by the Senate Finance Committee becomes law.

In many cases a new withholding plan adopted by the panel will take away more than the tax cuts will yield, even though everyone will get some tax reduction.

The withholding plan, recommended by the Treasury Department, is designed to eliminate underwithholding for many individuals.

The principal groups which now must pay when filing returns are persons earning $15,000 or more a year, working married couples and individuals with two or more jobs.

What the new schedule will mean is that a taxpayer now in the underwithholding category will not have to fork over a large sum when he files his return for that year.

It is estimated underwithholding now totals at least $800 million a year.

The House, in passing the tax bill, voted to put the new plan to correct this into effect in two steps—in 1972 and 1973.

But the Senate committee decided Monday, by a 7-6 vote, to change to the new system in one step—to take effect in 1972.

The Finance panel, in giving final approval to the tax bill, 12-1, Monday, handed President Nixon a substantial victory.

The measure contains practically all the benefits for individuals and business which the President has been counting on to boost the economy and produce new jobs.

Democrats lost in their fight to give additional relief to individuals but pledged to renew their efforts on the floor.

The committee's bill containing $16 billion in reductions for the 1971-73 period is slightly larger than the $15.5-billion House version.

The chief difference is in a provision added by the committee allowing many working couples and all individuals to deduct up to $4,800 a year for child care and domestic help.

Principal benefits for individuals in the Senate bill are an increase in the exemption from $650 to $675 this year and to $750 in 1972, a new $1,300 minimum standard deduction effective next year compared with the present $1,000, and an increase in the standard percentage deduction to 15 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling next year.

For business, the chief provisions are restoration of the 7-per-cent investment credit on machinery and equipment, writing into law of an accelerated depreciation plan declared earlier in the year by Nixon but challenged in the courts, and tax deferrals on certain imports.

'Big Bang' Active in Soviet Plan

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union now believes in launching an instant and massive strike with nuclear or chemical weapons in any European war, according to a British military analyst.

He says the Soviets have abandoned the policy of gradual escalation in favor of a quick "big bang" approach.

John Erickson, professor of higher defense studies at Edinburgh University, gave this assessment in a report published by the Royal United Services Institute.

Erickson is considered an expert on Soviet affairs. He has made many trips to the Soviet Union and is said to be personally acquainted with some of Russia's top generals and strategists.

The new Soviet military doctrine, he said in his report "Soviet Military Power," is clearly shown in the Red Army's massive war games held in Central Europe.

The 1967 games, he said, were based almost entirely on conventional weapons but the 1970 exercises were based on a mixture of conventional and nuclear weapons.

"Cardinal importance," he wrote, "is attached to the initial strike" and surprise is considered all important.

The Soviets now are capable of advancing by as much as 70 miles a day. They have a highly developed airlift capacity.

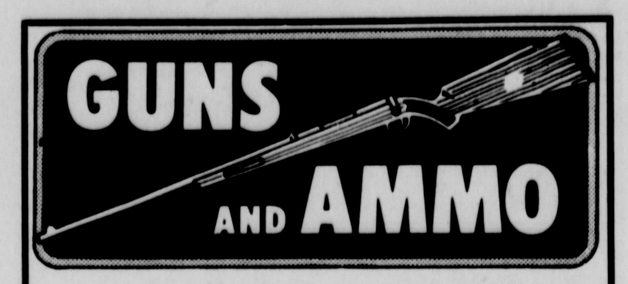

During the 1970 war games, 8,000 parachute troops and 160 vehicles were dropped in a space of 22 minutes.

Erickson said Moscow has 630 medium range ballistic missiles targeted on Western Europe. These missiles can be armed with either nuclear or nerve gas warheads.

"Soviet commentary on the 'nuclear battlefield'," Erickson says, "lays great stress on the depth and destructiveness of the initial mass nuclear strike."

The Russians, he says, are far more rigorous in their training than Western forces, especially in training their troops for nuclear combat.

"Exercises conducted over 'radio-active terrain' are made rather more grimly realistic by the use of real isotopes," he said.

Strange Neck Swelling Bothers Trumpet Player

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My problem is one that has stumped doctors where I live and no one seems to be able to help me. The problem is with my neck. Whenever I put the slightest bit of internal air pressure on it, it expands greatly. For instance, when I blow my nose this happens. I wouldn't mind so much but I am also a trumpet player and when I play my neck swells at least three inches all round the sides and in front. Besides being embarrassing, I also worry if it is hurting me in some way. I worry that sooner or later something might burst. Could you tell me why this happens and what to do about it? This would be very important to my career.

Lamb

Dear Reader — You have a small leak at the top of your larynx that is connected to an air sac in the neck. The sac is like a deflated balloon until you start blowing. The internal pressure from blowing causes the leak to expand and the sac fills and, as you describe it, the sac is confined to the front and sides of the neck. It is fairly common in trumpet players.

Because the neck skin is loose it is easy to have the ballooned-out appearance you describe. It is not likely to hurt you but since it is important to your career, why don't you go see an ear, nose and throat specialist? He would be the one concerned with your type of problem.

The internal peak pressure at the level of the larynx while playing a trumpet is often enough to support a column of water over seven feet high.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read your article on scaly skin spots which you said should be treated. I have one on my forehead, about the size of a dime. It was previously much larger and I had it removed by a dermatologist in the VA hospital in May, 1967. It was pronounced a mild "keratosis" and non-malignant. A small area came back and is rough to touch. It has persisted for about six months now.

You mentioned that there were a number of salves that remove the spots by a "chemical burn." Would you be good enough to let me know of any of these that I might be able to procure without a prescription? I would be most appreciative of your advice as it is very expensive and virtually impossible to get a doctor.

Dear Reader — I wish I could. The truth is that all such spots treated with a salve should first be seen by a doctor. Some spots are from other causes. All of the salves that are worth anything for this are prescription items and you will need to see a doctor for proper treatment. If a spot like the one you described comes back it definitely should be seen and usually treated again.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Sedalia, Missouri, Wednesday, Nov. 10, 1971—Section B

Sedalia Is Represented In Conference

Three Sedalians are scheduled to be among 100 persons who will attend the annual meeting of the United Cerebral Palsy Association (UCPA) of Missouri at the Lodge of the Four Seasons, Lake Ozark, Friday through Sunday, according to Harold C. Edwards, Executive director of UCPA.

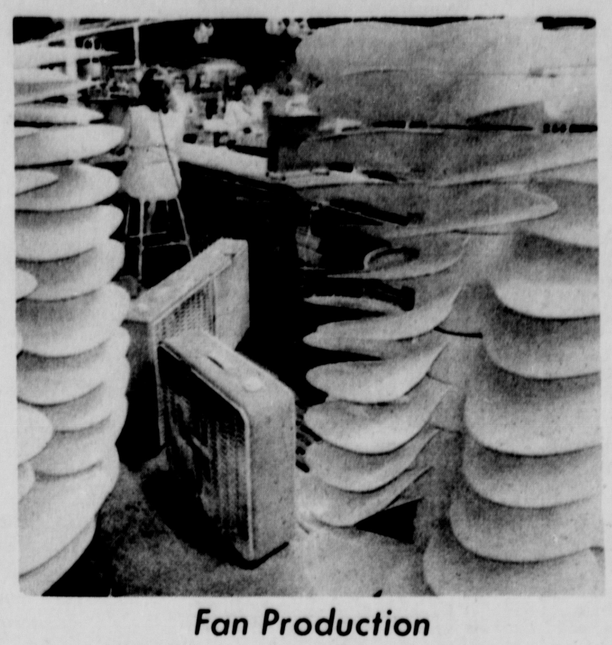

Attending from this area will be Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Connor, 2503 Anderson; Mary Kay Hunter, 624 East 14th; and Roger Garlich, 2605 South Quincy. Connor is the UCPA president for west-central Missouri, and secretary of the state UCPA. Mrs. Hunter is administrative secretary for UCPA in the west-central Missouri area and Garlich is director of the Children's Therapy Center.

Discussion of the new structure of the national UCPA organization, an awards dinner and a business session will highlight the conference. A report by Garlich on sheltered workshops will conclude the meetings.

In Ranks

Private Larry W. Martens, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Martens, Concordia, recently completed the 12-week chemical staff specialist course at the U. S. Army Chemical Center and School, Ft. McClellan, Ala.

The course trains students in administration and staff procedures and in the technical aspects of nuclear and chemical weapons systems and biological defense.

Fan Production

Fan blades frame the assembly line at Lasko Metal Products, Inc., Franklin, Tenn., as the company approaches the height of its season for shipping fans to customers for next summer's expected rush. Using IBM computers linked with System-3's they communicate orders and production schedules over leased telephone lines to company offices in West Chester, 800 miles away. (UPI)

Cycle Clubs Aid Sightless Woman

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Motorcycle clubs in Illinois and Missouri have joined forces to aid a St. Louis girl who was blinded by an assailant so she could not make an identification in a theft case.

The clubs are sponsoring a field meet at Lakeside Motorcycle Track in Lovejoy, Ill., at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

The $1.50 entry fee of riders participating in the meet will go to the Wilma Chestnut Fund established to pay for the girl's rehabilitation.

A Gospel concern will be sponsored by the Black Republican Progress Committee in Missouri at the Coliseum in St. Louis Nov. 19 to raise money for the Wilma Chestnut fund.

Vietnamization Praise Ignores Major Worries

SAIGON (AP) — The Nixon Administration's contention that the Vietnamization program is on schedule or ahead of it in all respects ignores some major problems as the withdrawal of U.S. forces reaches a critical stage.

"If the South Vietnamese are going to do the job, they must make the best use of available resources, and they are not doing that," said one senior U.S. officer.

Vast land regions, including the better part of three provinces north and east of Saigon, are not covered militarily. The militiamen of the Regional and Popular Forces are assigned the security of the countryside to free the South Vietnamese army for blocking operations into Cambodia. But one senior American officer in the 3rd Military Region, which includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces, gave this view:

"With three glaring exceptions, the Regional and Popular Forces can handle the day-to-day enemy activities fairly well. The three exceptions are the three main force enemy regiments in Military Region 3.

"The disposed Regional Forces are not capable of combating them. In the past we've had to use regular forces, the Americans, the Thais, the Aussies.

"The allies will have withdrawn some 80,000 troops in Military Region 3 after the Australians and Thais leave. There has been no increase in the authorized strength of the South Vietnamese regular army. There has been some increase in the Regional and Popular Forces but not substantial."

Five U.S. maneuver battalions remain in the region, and four of these generally operate against the 33rd North Vietnamese Regiment in Long Khanh Province.

"Some parts of these U.S. units are almost going to have to stay here," said one officer. "There have got to be some combat elements remaining as long as there are U.S. bases.

"But there will be a reduction in offensive operations by the U.S. forces, and more and more they will be restricted to manning the perimeters of the base. Even if they remain, the South Vietnamese may not have them to use a great deal. The effort will be close-in security."

Some South Vietnamese field commanders are considering converting their forces in border camps into mobile units.

"Frankly, these border camps are a waste of manpower," said one U.S. field officer. "They cover a relatively small circle. The enemy goes around, and they don't really deny infiltration."

If Vietnamization is to succeed, U.S. advisers say, the South Vietnamese regular forces must remain mobile and must conduct offensive border operations to keep North Vietnamese regulars from pushing into the interior of the country in strength.

As allied forces withdraw from Vietnam, some South Vietnamese regular units are reverting to fixed areas of responsibility away from the borders.

"We're trying like hell to prevent this," said one senior U.S. officer. "We're trying to make them understand they cannot afford to go back."

Another frequent problem is a lack of aggressiveness in patrolling to keep key land supply routes open, which would cut down on the U.S. air support required.

"The South Vietnamese face a relatively austere future in respect to American air support in South Vietnam," said one officer. "They will get support for limited offensive operations into North Vietnamese base areas in Cambodia. But they will be required to keep their own land lines open."

Johannes Kepler, a math professor and father of 12, first used the word satellite in the 16th century.

New Funds Added

GREEN RIDGE — Nearly $500 was added to the Alice Simmons Medical Fund at Missouri State Bank from proceeds of a box supper sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce here Saturday night.

Chamber representatives also announced the Green Ridge Community Betterment Club will host the Pettis County MCB breakfast, Dec. 2, at Ward's Cafe here.

FREIGHTER AVAILABLE

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Pennsylvania surgeon doesn't know what to do with an old freighter he bought for $2,000.

"I need a vessel about as much as I need another patient," Dr. Sidney Runyon of Lancaster, Pa., said after his bid was the only one at a dockside auction.

Request Is Denied In Teachers' Suit

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Federal District Judge George Templar has formally denied a request in the Kansas-National Education Association teacher-pay freeze suit.

K-NEA had, through three of its members, brought a class action seeking to bar the Office of Emergency Preparedness from enforcing the federal pay freeze—which ends next Sunday—from being applied to pay raises teachers were to receive as a result of contracts negotiated largely last spring.

Templar ruled earlier that the teachers would have a chance at relief through "administrative correction" of alleged inequities in how the freeze was applied to teachers' salaries in Phase 2 of the government's economic plan.

Woman Guard Can Handle Job

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Judging by standards of looks and stature, nobody would ever guess Patricia Garner's job. She is only 5 feet tall, weighs 118 pounds and speaks with a very soft voice.

But when the attractive brunette encounters a clenched fist or an open switchblade, she knows what to do.

Mrs. Garner may look like just a casual shopper, but her job is to shop for shoplifters. And the occasional "rough stuff" apparently doesn't disconcert her. "I like the action," admitted the petite mother of three children.

As the sole security supervisor for the White Cross drug stores in the Richmond metropolitan area, Mrs. Garner has arrested 18 shoplifters. And she's only been on the job two months.

How does she defend herself? "I know the basic holds in judo. I learned this during on the job training from a retired FBI agent." Mrs. Garner says narcotic addicts are the most brazen shoplifters because they are "desperate persons who are frantic beyond reason."

As part of her job, Mrs. Garner must appear in court for every shoplifting case for which she has made an arrest. So far she has never made a false arrest.

What does her family think about the potential danger in her job? "My husband understands it," Mrs. Garner answered with one of her unruffled smiles. "He's a detective himself for the Henrico Police Department."

And her children—Donald, 13 and Christopher, 9? "It impresses them. In fact, my youngest son says to the kids in the neighborhood, 'Guess what my Momma is? She's Detective Garner'."

Sometimes Mrs. Garner's children have been with her on the job and have actually seen her make arrests. The children often help to disguise her role as security officer.

Mrs. Garner travels from store to store when she's least expected to make security checks. Part of her job is internal security, which includes such duties as making cash register checks on employes.

Entertains Cantrell

Mrs. Charles Thompson, 3105 Skyline, entertained Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell Democratic candidate for state treasurer Tuesday with a tea at Maxine's Gourmet House. Mrs. Thompson, who said she sponsored the tea for Cantrell because of all the things he has done to aid the mentally retarded and aged in the past years introduced the representative from Overland to approximately 50 Sedalia women.

Bright New Finish For Old Teakettle

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Pauline wanted to know how to get and keep a bright finish on a brass teakettle. I mix ½-cup vinegar with ½-cup salt and rub this on with a soft cloth. When finish is bright again, wash in warm water and dry to a beautiful sheen. — CHARLOTTE

DEAR GIRLS — This is a really old, widely used method but do be sure the piece is well washed, with no traces left of the vinegar and salt, as the finish may become pitted and this will make green marks if left to dry. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Pauline will find that a good way to clean her brass teakettle and then prevent tarnishing is to use regular household ammonia. It also works on copper. — SHERRY

Polly's note — Watch those fumes and work where there is plenty of air.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — The felt back on a plastic cloth stuck to my almost-new solid walnut dining table. What can I do to remove these patchy spots? Now that the damage is done, I have bought a table pad but would like to remove the blemishes. — MONICA

DEAR POLLY — Most of us make such a mess when we get too much bath powder on the puff and it spills over everything. I take a clear plastic top off a pound coffee can, cut a hole about the size of a dollar in the center and put this in the box of powder. I always get enough on the puff but not too much so the "dust" is eliminated. — DELTA

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the companies who make tracing paper for those who sew. In the envelopes there are always too few sheets of dark paper and too many of white or yellow that are often useless to me. I wear out the navy, red and green sheets from reuse and am stuck with the others. — MRS. E. L. .S.

DEAR POLLY — I do a lot of sewing for my children and grandchildren so when I make shorts, pants suits or pajamas I sew a small piece of material or tape in the back where labels are often sewn on bought ones and then the little ones can easily tell the fronts from the backs of any such pants. — EDITH

Ann Landers

Hospital Blood Is Sometimes Tainted

Dear Ann Landers: This past year I have had three relatives in the hospital. I considered them all lucky to be alive, and not because they went in dangerously ill. They got really sick in the hospital. Every one of these patients had successful surgery. The problem came with the blood transfusions. It seems the blood obtained through the hospital (at a terrible price, I might add) was tainted. I wonder what, if anything, can be done about this sort of negligence. Don't suggest suing the doctor or the hospital. It can't be done out here on the Coast. Give me some practical advice for a change. — Furious In California

Dear Fury: It is not true that on the West Coast you cannot sue a doctor or a hospital "for any reason." Ask any California physician what his malpractice insurance costs. (Surgeons and anesthetists pay the highest rates because they are the most frequently sued.)

As for what can be done to protect a loved one against tainted blood dispensed in the hospitals, there's no simple answer. Sometimes the blood of friends or relatives can be used, but it must be the proper match. If the family can round up enough donors, this could eliminate the necessity of buying blood from the hospital.

Paid donors are sometimes boozers or junkies who are desperate for a fast dollar. The chances of getting an infection from such a donor is, of course, greater than from a relative or friend. And this is an appropriate time to urge my readers to support the American Red Cross Blood Donor Program. The more voluntary donors, the less need to buy blood from addicts who are the greatest hepatitis spreaders of all.

Dear Ann Landers: I learned something from your column that has been a lifesaver. You said a while back that if a person can see the humor in a situation that bugs him, he has it made.

Well, I've been working for a man for nearly two years and he can't remember my name to save his life. For the first six months, he called me by his former secretary's name. Then he got mixed up and called me by the name of another new girl. All of a sudden he began to call me Flora. (My name is Dora.) When I corrected him, he said, "Oh, I'm sorry." Now he is calling me Nora and Cora.

I used to feel hurt. Now I just laugh. Thanks for helping me over the hump. — A Rose By Any Other Name

Dear Rose — I mean Dora, or is it Nora? — Thanks for your letter. The important thing is that he gets the name right on the bottom of the check.

———

Dear Ann Landers: I was engaged recently and my fiance gave me a beautiful (and expensive) diamond. The problem is, I do not want to wear the ring until it is insured. The price of the insurance isn't what's bothering me. What I need to know is who pays for the insurance—do I or does he? My fiance says I do. My family says he should. You wouldn't believe the hassles we've had. Please settle it. — Springfield Lovers

Dear Spring: Are you living with your fiance? (These days it's safe to ask.) If you are — the ring should be added to his policy. If you are living with your folks the ring should be added to your father's policy. If you are living alone or with another girl, YOU should insure the ring. If the ring is not paid for, the jeweler owns it.

University's Coal To Last to Nov. 20

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri-Columbia has picked up another 500 tons of coal and now can stay open at least through Nov. 20 under current weather conditions, if the national coal strike continues.

Thornton Jenkins, physical plant supervisor, said the deadline could be extended if the weather gets warmer.

The extra coal was acquired Monday from Peabody Coal Company's Mark Twain Mine near Columbia. Jenkins said the company just got permission to release the stockpile Monday and "there's no more left now."

Smaller Apple Orchards Expected To Diminish

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small "mom and pop" apple orchards are expected to fade away despite rising demand and larger production indicated for the future, says an Agriculture Department expert.

Commercial apple production, defined as from orchards of 100 or more trees, is widely dispersed among 34 states, although two-thirds of the yearly output is in California, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Washington.

Last year the apples were worth $296 million to growers, second only to oranges—$395 million—among the nation's fruit crops. Apples also ranked ahead of such other agricultural crops as rye, flaxseed, cottonseed, sugarcane and lettuce in terms of farm value.

Ben W. Huang, an analyst in the Economic Research Service, said in a report issued Monday apple production has increased steadily in the last 20 years. The 1969 crop was the largest since the late 1930s, and since the early 1950s, crops have grown about 30 per cent.

But the 20-year growth has not been uniform in all geographic areas. Washington state, the leading producer, has had a boost smaller than any other major state except Virginia, while Pennsylvania has increased output 80 per cent, Huang said.

There have been "dramatic shifts" in varieties of apple trees. Old plantings are being replaced with dwarf and semi-dwarf trees which have greater yields per acre, he said.

As more of this occurs, Huang said, apple production appears to be headed for continued gains. Demand, mainly from increased population, also is expected to keep rising.

"However, increased efficiency often requires increases in uses of capital and a large scale of operation which will force many small and less efficient apple growers out of business," Huang said.

"Thus, total apple acreage is likely to fall, and apple production will be concentrated in larger commercial holdings," he said.

Meanwhile, Huang said, more apples are being used for processing while per capita use of fresh apples has fallen.

All use of the fruit reached a peak of 31.5 pounds per capita in 1951 and then dropped to a low of 23.9 pounds in 1966, Huang said. The big crop of 1969 and the relatively large output last year helped boost per capita use to 29.2 pounds.

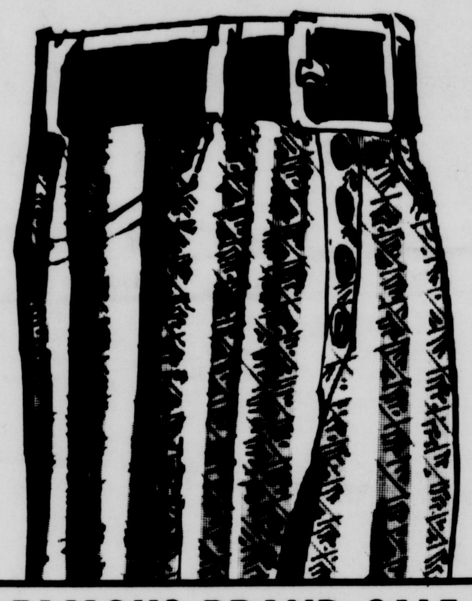

Per capita fresh apple eating declined from 22.7 pounds in the early 1950s to 16.3 pounds in 1967-70. Twenty years ago fresh use accounted for 80 per cent of per capita apple consumption. By the late 1960s it had fallen to 62 per cent.

In contrast, Huang said, apples used for processing rose from a per capita consumption of six pounds 20 years ago to 10 pounds recently.

MVP Honors in NL Voted to Joe Torre

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Over the years I think it's gone to the right player," said Joe Torre, who Tuesday climaxed an 11-season major league baseball career with his selection as the National League's Most Valuable Player.

But, Torre added, "To win it so overwhelmingly is a surprise. You definitely think about it; you know that the voting is done as soon as the season's over. I had a feeling I'd get it."

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound Torre, only the third third baseman to win the award, also became the 10th St. Louis Cardinal to snare an honor Stan Musial won three times.

His margin over runnerup Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the majors' home run king, was 318-222 in balloting points by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Torre received 21 of the committee's 24 first-place votes, Stargell polling the other three. Third place went to the Atlanta Braves' inveterate Hank Aaron.

"What hurt Stargell in the voting, I think, was that it was tough to single out a player on Pittsburgh's ball club," the 31-year-old Torre said.

"I never considered this kind of year," said Torre, who batted .363 to lead the majors and had 137 RBI, 230 hits and 352 total bases for other leading marks.

"There is more than one reason for why it happened, I think, but the only thing I was conscious of that was different from any other year was concentration.

"I've never had this kind of concentration," said Torre, who hit safely in 133 of 161 games in which he played. "I think the reason is that I got away from catching. You don't realize it until you get away from it that catching takes so much away."

An All-Star catcher while with the Atlanta Braves eight seasons, Torre called his 1969 trade to the Cards while involved in a salary dispute "like being reborn."

"Over in Atlanta they thought I was a home run hitter," noted Torre, who in 1966 slugged 36 home runs. "I changed when I came over here. A good deal of it had to do with the ball park."

With the Cards, Torre has had RBI totals of 101 in 1969, 100 in 1970 and the 137 of last season, a high total for the club since Johnny Mize equaled the figure in 1937.

Another key to his upswing in batting, he said, was a water diet responsible for the loss of 25 pounds in his playing weight during spring training in 1970. "It made me quicker," he said.

After surging to a .325 batting mark in 1970, Torre was rewarded with a contract for the 1971 season calling for an estimated $115,000.

"I don't think there's going to be any trouble this year," he said in regard to his 1972 pay. "As far as a contract goes, it's secondary to the ball club. When you get to be 31 and going on 32 time is beginning to run out and I've never played for a pennant winner.

"I felt that I could knock in 110 runs with Lou Brock and Matty Alou batting in front of me," said Torre, who produced 21 game-winning RBI and achieved a .566 percentage in driving across runners in scoring position.

"With our club you don't need a home run," said Torre, whose 24 circuit clouts included only nine in Busch Stadium. "To me it's more difficult to hit a single with a man on second base than it is to hit a home run."

Bobby Bonds of San Francisco finished fourth followed by Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, the Los Angeles Dodgers' Maury Wills and Cy Young Award winner Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs in the MVP balloting.

"I'm very excited, even though I never show emotion," Torre said at a news conference while flanked by former Cardinals MVP winners Musial and Joe Medwick.

"I heard conversation around the league that I'd get it the last few weeks of the season," he said, "but I told myself I wasn't going to worry about it. I did have control over the batting title, and I was able to win it."

Wrestling for the Puck

Pittsburgh Penguins' Dave Burrows (4) falls to the ice and has St. Louis Blues' Mike Parizeau come tumbling down on top of him as the two fight for the puck during the opening period of play, Tuesday night, in St. Louis. Pittsburgh went on to win the game, 4-1. (UPI)

St. Louis Blues Fall to Penguins

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Pittsburgh Penguins have been outshooting opponents and losing lately. Tuesday night they did it and won, beating the St. Louis Blues 4-1 in National Hockey League action and breaking a losing streak at nine games.

The Blues couldn't generate a sustained team offense in Tuesday's only NHL contest, but they matched Pittsburgh in the fight department.

Referee Bruce Hood called 90 minutes in penalties and threw Blues defenseman Barclay Plager off the ice for being the third man in a fight.

"We had only 10 minutes in majors before this game," said St. Louis Coach Bill McCreary. "We got 45 minutes tonight, so we tried to beat them physically, and that at least showed something," he said.

After his team outshot the Blues 33-23 and chalked up the victory, Penguin Coach Red Kelly said his club has now won more games on the road this year—four in 11—than it did all of last season, when it won only three.

The loss was the eighth in 10 games for St. Louis and the fifth consecutive defeat on home ice.

While scoring only four goals in the past four games, St. Louis has given up 20.

The first goal the Blues gave up Tuesday night was tallied while St. Louis was sitting out a slashing penalty on Noel Picard. The Penguins went out front at 12:23 of the opening period and stayed there.

Rene Robert opened the scoring by deflecting Syl Apps' point shot into the St. Louis net. Brian Hextall added another for the winners before the period was over.

Greg Polis and rookie Brian McKenzie, Pittsburgh's No. 1 draft choice, scored second-period goals to wrap it up.

Chris Bordeleau scored the St. Louis goal in the second period.

Prairie Home Takes Two from Otterville

PRAIRIE HOME — Prairie Home won both the varsity boys and girls basketball games Tuesday night here over Otterville.

Prairie Home exploded for 24 points in the third period to break open the boys contest and net a 65-54 win in Cooper County Athletic Association play.

Randy Kuhn of Prairie Home and Bobby Paul of Otterville shared the scoring honors with 19 points each. Joe Graff of Prairie Home added 11, while Otterville's Bill Dueschle had 15.

In the girls contest, Prairie Home outscored Otterville 17-11 to win a narrow 47-45 victory.

Kathy Odneal of Prairie Home and Pam Cave of Otterville scored 23 points each to capture the game's scoring honors. Debbie Markman of Otterville was the only other player in double figures with 11.

Jeff Siemon Named

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeff Siemon was in on 17 tackles Saturday as the Stanford Indians clinched their second straight Pacific Eight Conference championship with a 20-9 win over UCLA.

For his effort, the Associated Press selected him as the College Lineman of the Week.

AP Selects Mitchell

NEW YORK (AP) — Penn State's 200-pound running back Lydell Mitchell has been named by the Associated Press as the College Back of the Week.

Mitchell carried the ball 24 times, gained 209 yards and scored five touchdowns to lead the Nittany Lions to a 63-27 rout over Maryland.

Blue Birds Top Smithton

'Cats Thaw Northwest Freeze for Tourney Win

LINCOLN — Northwest put the ball in the deep freeze, but found their side of the scoreboard the one being frozen as the top-seeded Warsaw Wildcats advanced to Thursday night's semifinal game against Sacred Heart with a 55-29 win over Northwest of Hughesville.

Other action Tuesday night in opening-round play of the annual Kaysinger Conference Tournament found defending tournament and league champion Cole Camp winning over Smithton, 66-40.

Coach Donald Mosbaugh of Northwest decided since he gave up considerable height at every position, the best thing to do would be move the ball around out front and hope that pivot man Tim Kessler could work loose inside.

The tactic worked, except for one thing — Warsaw's defense would not loosen inside and the Mustangs found themselves virtually without an offense.

The Mustangs made a close game out of it in the opening period, as they went into the second stanza trailing Warsaw by six, 8-2, but then the Wildcats caught fire and outscored Northwest, 19-3 in the second quarter.

Warsaw showed little offense, but capitalized on the fast break to take a 27-5 lead into the dressing room at the half.

The Wildcats remained on their scoring binge in the third period to stretch their lead to 48-16. Guard Dennis Mills and forward Eddie Barnes did most of the damage on the break scoring 15 and 14 in that order for the game.

Doug Stevens, a 6'6" junior and 6'3" Bob Miller patrolled the inside and choked off virtually all of Northwest's scoring attempts in the first three periods of play.

Kessler, the leading scorer and rebounder for the Mustangs, could only score one field goal during the game as Stevens put his three-inch height advantage to good use.

Alan Meyer was the leading scorer for Northwest with five points.

Northwest had a chance in the early going to make it a close game, but could not score from the free throw line, even though they got into the one-and-one situation midway through the first half.

In Cole Camp's win over Smithton, things went according to expectations with Roger Donnell taking care of the scoring and Steve Heimsoth doing the work inside for the Blue Birds.

Cole Camp ran up a 16-2 score in the opening quarter and was never seriously threatened as they rolled to their 66-40 victory over the Tigers.

Smithton had trouble hitting the bucket and went through nearly six minutes of the first period before guard Mike Healey hit the first field goal with 2:02 left. Healey, a transfer student from Sedalia Smith-Cotton, got the second two-pointer for Smithton with 6:27 left on the second period clock, but by that time the Blue Birds were on their way.

Donnell, Heimsoth and Ronnie Miesner had accounted for 26 of the Blue Birds 34 points as the first half ended.

Donnell wound up as the game's leading scorer with 19; Miesner checked in with 11, while Heimsoth added 10.

Smithton forward Mike Ackerman was the leading point producer for the losing Tigers with 13; he was the only Smithton player in double figures.

Two games are on tap for tonight, both in the losers' bracket. The opening game will find Green Ridge taking on Lincoln at 7 p.m.; Northwest and LaMonte meet in the 8:30 p.m. game.

The winner of the Northwest-LaMonte clash will move out to the consolation contest. The winner of the Green Ridge-Lincoln tilt earns the right to play Smithton for the other consolation berth.

Thursday's action pits Sacred Heart of Sedalia against top-seeded Warsaw at 8:30 p.m.; the winner will go into Saturday night's championship game.

The opening game Thursday at 7 p.m. finds second-seeded Stover taking on arch rival Cole Camp, the third-seeded team in the tourney. The winner goes into the championship contest.

Scoring

Cole Camp (66) — Donnell 19, Miesner 11, Heimsoth 10, Heisterberg 8, R. Oelrichs 6, F. Oelrichs 4, Logan 4, Luetjen 2, Schnakenberg 2.

Smithton (40) — Ackerman 13, Anderson 8, McCutchen 7, Healey 6, Hampy 2, Galloway 2, Teter 2.

Warsaw (55) — Mills 15, Barnes 14, Stevens 9, Whitaker 6, Barb 5, Miller 4, Boeger 2.

Northwest (29) — Meyer 5, Shireman 4, Mackesty 4, Kessler 4, Houchens 4, S. Barnes 3, Pauley 2, Smith 2, Edwards 1.

Brown Defends KC Loss to New York

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "We still have control of our destiny," states Aaron Brown of the Kansas City Chiefs. "We've been in tougher situations."

The 6-foot-5, 265-pound defensive end made the observations Tuesday in response to criticism leveled at the American Conference football club after its 13-10 defeat by the New York Jets.

"We know what we have to do. It isn't simple; we have to win," Brown said. "And there's no reason why we shouldn't."

The loss gave the Chiefs a 5-2-1 mark in the AFC Western Division and put them behind Oakland which is 5-1-2.

"Look at 1969—we lost Lenny (Dawson)," said Brown, who will be 28 on Nov. 16. "We had no experienced quarterback.

"Who'd have thought we were going to the Super Bowl?" The Chiefs did and won it, defeating the Minnesota Vikings 23-7.

The Chiefs host Cleveland Sunday but the Jets game remains on Brown's mind.

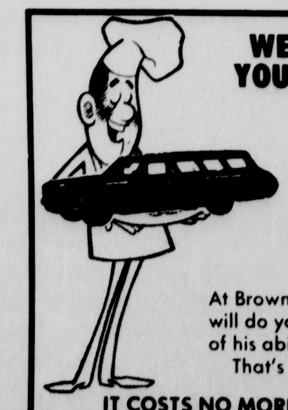

"Our approach wasn't soft. Coach (Hank) Stram sees to that," the University of Minnesota product said. "No one minimized the difficulty of the game.

"But New York played an inspired game," he said. "They had two fine running backs and it boiled down to a running game. We have to throw well and we couldn't."

Brown said it was getting to the critical part of the season "but we've been there before."

The Port Arthur, Tex., native said, "If we do what we're capable of doing we're going to win. That's why we're not down in the dumps over this loss."

Then he added this assessment: "If we win our next five games, they'll forget we even played New York."

I've heard a few people say, "This has to be the worst football team (record-wise) that Smith-Cotton has ever had."

Although this year's team has already lost more games than any other S-C football team (eight), the 1929 Tiger grid squad must have taken a dive with the Stock Market because the best they could show for the season was a 0-0, Big Seven Conference tie with Wentworth Military Academy.

The 1929 S-C football team failed to win a game in their eight outings that season.

What's more, that team only recorded six points during the campaign, while yielding 126.

While checking back on S-C football records, one runs across some interesting things.

For example: The first football game ever played in this city was on April 29, 1893 between what the SEDALIA GAZETTE termed "a team from the University of Missouri and Marmaduke Military Academy of Sweet Springs."

The contest was held in Association Park, which is now known as Liberty Park.

The first time a public address system was used at a Smith-Cotton football game in Liberty Park was on Oct. 3, 1947.

The last time Smith-Cotton won a Central Missouri Conference football championship was in 1955. (S-C did tie for the CMC grid title in 1957 with Jefferson City and Columbia).

The Central Missouri Conference has produced some outstanding athletes, but the most recent is Brian Walsh of Hannibal, who is a freshman and a member of the Missouri University cross country team.

Walsh, who set the record in the Missouri State High School Activities Association's state Class L track and field meet a year ago in the two-mile run, recorded a time of 20:00 for the four-mile course in the Big Eight Conference meet, Saturday, in Lincoln, Neb.

That clocking gave him tenth place in the individual finish.

Ex-Smith-Cotton track and cross country standout Bob Logan, now a sophomore at Northeast Missouri State College, Kirksville, turned in a good performance himself in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association Meet Saturday in Warrensburg.

He gave the Bulldogs a ninth-place finish and helped the squad to second in the team standings as he clocked at 26:44 on a five-mile course.

Bucks Hang On In Narrow Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Phoenix Suns scared the daylights out of the Milwaukee Bucks, but the National Basketball Association champions prevailed in a fierce struggle that seemed like a playoff game in March.

"Phoenix played a fantastic game, they really wanted this one," said Milwaukee coach Larry Costello Tuesday night after the Bucks had pulled out a 118-113 victory after trailing by seven points at 97-90 early in the last quarter.

It took a 44-point performance by Kareem Jabbar and two key steals by Lucius Allen and Bob Dandridge in the last minute with the Bucks ahead 115-113 for the NBA champions to win their 16th straight on their home court. The score was tied 14 times and the lead changed hands 10 times.

The Golden State Warriors whipped Houston 115-99, Los Angeles downed Chicago 122-109 and Buffalo defeated Portland 109-100 in the other NBA games scheduled.

"The Suns hustled, hit the open man and had an awful lot of layups, particularly in the third quarter," Costello commented.

As for Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Phoenix coach, he said, "Jabbar takes all the fun out of coaching for me. Here we screen, we pick, we pass and all they have to do is throw it to the big safety valve and he drops it in."

"When we were up 97-90," Fitzsimmons continued, "We let him get the ball too much. And when the pressure was on, our playmaking left something to be desired. The Bucks play with a little more confidence than the Suns when they're behind. I think that was the whole story."

A three-point play by Jabbar tied the score at 106-106 with 4:10 left to play and with 3:38 on the clock a hook by Jabbar put the Bucks ahead for good at 108-106. Connie Hawkins was high for the Suns with 28.

Houston, led by Stu Lantz, the game's high scorer with 30 points, opened a 15-point bulge in the first half before the Warriors erupted after halftime. Cazzie Russell sparked the rally with 12 points in the third period. He finished with 23.

The victory kept the Warriors on the heels of the first place Lakers in the Pacific Division. Jim McMillian led the Lakers over the Bulls with 28 points. Bob Love topped Chicago with 25.

Elmore Smith, Buffalo's 7-foot rookie, was a major factor in Buffalo's victory over Portland. He grabbed 17 rebounds and blocked 11 shots, in addition to scoring 12 points. Bob Kauffman topped Buffalo scorers with 30 points. Sidney Wicks paced the Trail Blazers with 34 and 12 rebounds.

Mrs. Jane Rubel, 17, of Ruthven, Iowa, takes to the court for basketball practice after being disqualified for more than a year because she was married and has an 11-month-old daughter. Mrs. Rubel, a former Iowa girls high school basketball standout, was barred from competition because of an Iowa Girls High School Athletic Union rule which blocks girls associated with marriage or pregnancy from participating in sanctioned athletics. Federal Judge William C. Hanson has issued a temporary restraining order against the union to allow Mrs. Rubel to begin practice. She and her 19-year-old husband, Kenneth, have filed a $125,000 suit against the union contending the rule is unconstitutional. (UPI)

Auburn Slim Choice Over Georgia 'Dogs

NEW YORK (AP) — It's look-ahead time in the college football world with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Michigan and Alabama all undergoing final tune-ups before their biggest games of the season. But it's NOW time for Auburn and Georgia.

Those Southeastern Conference titans, two of the nine unbeaten teams in the land, clash at Athens, Ga., in a game that will go a long way not only in deciding the SEC champion, but a couple of bowl berths, as well.

Both teams will be in post-season action somewhere. The loser will drop out of contention for the national championship, which will probably be decided in the Orange or Sugar Bowl, but may wind up in the Cotton Bowl.

The Georgia defense has chalked up four shutouts in the last eight games and allowed only seven points in each of the four others. But they haven't faced a quarterback who's having the kind of year Auburn's Pat Sullivan is having.

None of Georgia's previous opponents is in the Top Twenty. Auburn survived a 10-9 scare at Tennessee earlier in the season. Buoyed by the knowledge that the big SEC games—Auburn at Tennessee, Alabama at Louisiana State—have gone to the visitors, one shaky vote is cast for ... AUBURN.

Nebraska at Kansas State—Next ... Oklahoma. The Cornhuskers throttled Iowa State 37-0 last Saturday and now go after K-State's Dennis Morrison, who is coming off a 363-yard passing effort. NEBRASKA.

Kansas at Oklahoma—Next ... Nebraska. The Sooners were held to 20 points by Missouri, but Kansas has been jolted for 30 by Florida State, 38 by Minnesota, 55 by Nebraska, 40 by Iowa State and 35 by Colorado. OKLAHOMA.

Miami, Fla. at Alabama—Next ... Auburn. And coming off the dramatic conquest of LSU, this would be the perfect time for a letdown, especially with ace runner Johnny Musso sidelined. But Bear Bryant doesn't have many letdowns. ALABAMA.

North Carolina State at Penn State—N.C. State's Al Michaels was a star quarterback at Penn State during his playing days and as assistant coach from 1935 - 53. The Lions wouldn't want to show an alumnus a losing team. PENN STATE.

Texas Christian at Texas—A victory would put TCU in the Southwest Conference lead and the Horned Frogs have been on an emotional binge since the death of Coach Jim Pittman. This also will be an emotional time for Darrell Royal, of Texas, who was Pittman's boss for 12 years at Mississippi State, Washington and ... TEXAS.

Southern California at Washington—Someone's three-game winning streak is going to get busted. USC's Sam Cunningham is hurt. Washington's Sonny Sixkiller isn't. WASHINGTON.

Northwestern at Ohio State—Where, oh, where has the Buckeyes' offense gone? Hello, Columbus. Goodby, Northwestern. OHIO STATE.

Cornell at Dartmouth—A Cornell victory clinches the Ivy League title for the Big Red. A Dartmouth triumph throws the two teams into a tie again, just as they were before the Indians lost to Columbia last weekend. Upset Special—mild upset, that is—of the Week ... DARTMOUTH.

Florida State at Georgia Tech—FSU has never beaten the Yellow Jackets, although they've played one tie in eight previous meetings. No time like the present. FLORIDA STATE.

Other games:
Louisville over Southern Illinois, Memphis State over North Texas State, Notre Dame over Tulane, Colorado over Oklahoma State, Iowa over Indiana, Iowa State over Missouri, Michigan State over Minnesota, Ohio U. over Cincinnati, Air Force over Tulsa, New Mexico State over Wichita State, Wisconsin over Illinois.

Buford Stars In Orioles' 4-2 Victory

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — Don Buford stole two bases and batted in three runs as the American League champion Baltimore Orioles shaded Japan's Central League combination of the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants and the Hiroshima Toyo Carp 4-2 today.

Buford's fifth-inning two-run homer broke a scoreless tie and his sharp infield hit in the ninth gave the visitors their fourth run.

After two were out in the top of the fifth, Dave Johnson walked to set the stage for Buford's two-run circuit blast, his fourth in Japan, off the second Japanese hurler, Yoshitaka Kihara.

The Orioles scored their only other tally when Boog Powell singled with two men on in the eighth. Johnson, who had walked and moved to second on another walk by Buford, scampered home from second base.

The Japanese rapped out 11 hits off southpaw Mike Cuellar in 8 1-3 innings. Baltimore was only able to collect five hits off five Japanese hurlers.

Baltimore boosted its record in Japan to nine triumphs against one loss and three ties.

Aspromonte Will Manage Indians

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ken Aspromonte, former Cleveland Indians' player and a manager in the Tribe's farm system, has been given the task of trying to turn the Indians around after one of the most dismal seasons in the team's history.

Aspromonte was named manager of the Indians Tuesday at a reported $27,000 salary. He succeeds Johnny Lipon, who was not rehired after finishing the season for Alvin Dark who was fired July 30.

"Any club that lost as many games as the Indians did last season is bound to be down," said Aspromonte. "We're going to work hard on morale and on motivation ... to get the players thinking right again."

The new manager said he plans to spend a lot of time over the winter traveling around the country to talk to members of the team.

The 40-year-old Aspromonte said he is aggressive "and I expect my players to be just as aggressive. I like to win. I have a phobia about losing."

Aspromonte said he "can be tough" and promised a strenuous spring training program starting Feb. 28 at Tucson, Ariz.

The Indians lost 102 games this past season. The only other Indians' team to do that badly was the 1914 squad, which lost the same number.

Tribe President Gabe Paul had been looking for a new manager since Oct. 13. He had tried unsuccessfully to lure Dave Bristol, manager of the Milwaukee Brewers, to Cleveland before turning to Aspromonte.

Aspromonte played for the Indians from 1960 to 1962 and also played for the Washington Senators, Los Angeles Angels, Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee Braves and Boston Red Sox during a major league career that extended from 1957 to 1963. He ended his playing career with the Taiyo Whales of Japan in 1966.

He has managed Tribe farm clubs the past four seasons.

SFCC Scrimmage Game

State Fair Community College head basketball coach Bill Barton will unveil the 1971-72 edition of the Roadrunners Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Agriculture Building on the Missouri State Fairgrounds in their annual soap scrimmage game.

Barton, who has seen many of his squad members injured since the practice season opened early in October, announced his tentative starting lineup, Wednesday.

Clarence Hampton, 6'7" from Macon, Ga., will start at the post position.

Teaming with Hampton in the front court will be two of three choices at the forward positions. Jim Lassiter, 6'3" from Freedom, Pa., will be one of the forwards, while either Myles Yates, 6'4" from Urbana, Mo., or Jerry Dieckmann, 6'7" from Fulton, will be the other starter.

At the guard slots will be Brent Yates, Urbana, Mo., and Duane Kraettli, Hermann, Mo.

Mark Jones, LaMonte, and Kevin Arand, Union, Mo., both of whom are still suffering from ankle injuries, will probably see action, depending on their injuries.

Prior to the SFCC-Whiteman Air Force Base soap scrimmage game, the Coyote Pack will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Coyote Pack President Bob Hoskins said that the booster meeting was open to the public.

The Roadrunners open their regular season Tuesday on the home court with Johnson County, Kan. Community College.

Schools To Open Despite Defeat

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Schools will reopen in Independence Monday despite defeat of a 95-cent levy increase Tuesday that officials had said was required to resume classes.

In the heaviest school election turnout in city history the levy proposal received 9,107 votes against to 8,846 for. A two-thirds majority was needed for passage.

Shortly after returns were counted and school board met and voted to reopen schools next Monday. The schools had been closed since Nov. 1 because of lack of funds to pay teachers.

Dr. Guy Carter, school superintendent, said teachers would be paid for November from anticipated state aid due on Dec. 15.

The levy hike, which would have increased the rate to $5.65 per $100 assessed valuation, has been defeated seven times, three this year.

Controversy surrounded the proposal with opponents contending the school board was using the 16,633 school children as pawns to get the increase and was ignoring other ways of keeping schools open.

After the results were announced a spokesman for one group John McDonough, executive secretary of Tax Reform Instead of Tax Increase Inc., issued a statement that began: "Now let's get the schools open."

It went on, "The only way to tell if more money is needed is to ask parents of school children to pay whatever else is needed to open schools."

He said long-range reform would make parents of school children pay for the schools and administrators would "stop bombarding the taxpayers."

There was no immediate announcement from school officials other than to say the schools would re-open.

Before the election, George Berkemeir, president of the board of education, had said the closing was necessary since the students would suffer more if the quality of education were reduced to keep schools open.

He had rejected alternatives to borrow $715,297 needed to meet the teacher payroll Nov. 23.

Rufus Burrus, board attorney, said after the election another one could be held on the tenth day after a board decision to re-submit a levy proposal.

The board's next scheduled meeting is Nov. 23.

Among the early voters were former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman, who voted at an elementary school.

Approval Is Given For Plant

OKLAHOMA CITY — Wilson Certified Foods, Inc. announced Wednesday that its board of directors had granted final approval for the company to locate a new hog slaughtering and processing plant in Marshall, Mo., and that construction will begin late this month.

Dewey Lyon, president and chief executive officer, said the general contractor would not be selected until around the first of next year, but that there would be some initial site activity such as grading and foundation work "in two or three weeks." Wilson Certified Foods announced earlier that it had acquired options on approximately 94 acres of land 1½ miles west of the Marshall city limits, just north of Highway 20.

Lyon said satisfactory arrangements have been made with the city of Marshall regarding utility capacities and that the proposed pre-treatment system for waste has been reviewed with government officials to insure that the plant "will fully comply with all federal, state and municipal standards."

"Everything is progressing smoothly and on schedule, thanks to the outstanding cooperation we have received from the Chamber of Commerce, City Council, Board of Public Works and other civic leaders in the area, and we look forward to taking our place as a corporate citizen of Marshall by the spring of 1973," Lyon said.

"Marshall and Saline County have a lot to offer a Company such as ours," he said, "and we, in turn, pledge to contribute our 'fair share' to the growth, prosperity and quality of life in the community."

Community Betterment Winner Boasts Genuinely Busy Town

EDITOR'S NOTE — Sumner, Mo., population 178, was the grand prize winner this year in the state-sponsored community betterment program. The following article gives an insight into life in the little town which prices itself on citizen participation and achievement in community affairs.

By RICHARD J. OLIVE

SUMNER, Mo. (AP) — "People over in Cunningham are pretty mad because a couple of the boys stole their train depot one night and moved it up here," Ernest Bloss, Sumner's mayor, told his guests.

The three men were seated at a table in Homer and Ethel's Snack Bar, unofficial "Wild Goose Headquarters" for the hundreds of hunters who overrun the area each fall. Homer Douglas, Bloss' son-in-law, obviously relished the affront dealt to Cunningham by the Sumner raiders, speaking in such detail about the incident as to indicate he might have participated himself.

"That's right," he said, standing over the trio. "They put it right onto a flatbed car and moved it up here. Folks in Cunningham even filed a suit to get it back, but I guess it just died in the courts."

How big was the depot?" one of the guests asked.

"I really can't say," apologized Bloss. "That happened before I came here"—which was in 1910.

More than 61 years in the past, and the Great Train Depot Robbery was still being talked about in Sumner.

Cunningham itself is virtually gone, not even big enough to qualify for mention on the state's road map.

It's that way in Sumner, population 178. But one must be careful with labels here.

Mrs. Roland Epperson, whose two children are married and gone and who, by her own admission, spends more time with the town than with her husband, said a newspaper in Jefferson City, Mo., once made reference to "the sleepy little town of Sumner."

"That," she bristled at the memory, "got us a little mad."

Some others in the town don't fully agree, but Mrs. Epperson maintains it was that label which forced Sumner folk to shake off their lethargy and become such examples of total involvement as to capture five Missouri Community Betterment (MCB) awards since 1964.

This year they hit the top.

Of nearly 300 communities in the state active in the program administered by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, Sumner was the grand-prize winner.

Three times Sumner was cited in the National Cleanup contest among cities of less than 25,000 residents, and Mrs. Epperson, Sumner MCB chairman four years, has received the governor's leadership award three times.

When Sumner first became involved in the state program in 1964, the town "had no place to go but up," said Walter DeWeese, a pensioner who was the first MCB chairman.

A year earlier the school was closed down and the children were bused to a consolidated district at Mendon, about 10 miles to the southeast.

Sumner has no industry—most of the men work in Brookfield, 18 miles northward, if they don't farm—and the nearest major artery, U.S. 36, bypasses the town 19 miles to the north. The only real attractions which have drawn travelers off the interstate are the Swan Lake National Wildlife Refuge and the state-administered Fountain Grove Wildlife Area.

The waterfowl hunting season, preceded by Sumner's Wild Goose Fall Festival, is the busiest time of the year.

DeWeese said the town was faced with extinction when the school was closed because the old Methodist church was in advanced disrepair.

"Any community centers around its church and school," he said. "A good many country people come into town for church. Lose the country people, and we'd begin to fall apart."

Sumner's first MCB project was to build the $40,000 Methodist church, which was paid off in less than two years, Mrs. Epperson said.

It was a school day, shortly after noon, and the streets were deserted as Mrs. Epperson led a group of visitors to the church. Quite plain on the outside, the structure is pleasingly designed in the interior.

Mrs. Epperson thought nothing of an unlocked door with no one inside to watch over the church property, but when asked about it, said, "I don't like a locked church.

"Who knows when someone might want to slip in and pray sometime?"

Mrs. Epperson recalled, "We were surprised at the number of people who wanted a new church." The effort was a catalyst, and once the church was completed, she said, "We had to have a town clean enough to go with it."

The next phase of MCB involved trash and brush cleanup and the demolition of old buildings.

"It took a long time to get permission from a lot of the owners who weren't here anymore," Mrs. Epperson said. The demolition project continued each Sunday, "young and old alike pitched in and we used to make it a day with picnic lunches and everything" while the old buildings burned, she said.

"There wasn't much left to Sumner when we got finished," she said, "but we got most of the old buildings down."

An MCB project is always under way in Sumner. The board meets on the last Monday of every month, when new ideas are introduced.

When the harsh north-central Missouri winter drives Sumner residents indoors, the MCB work goes with them.

One year the wintertime project was building elaborate bird houses for the martins. Seventy were constructed, enough for virtually every residence in the area.

This year wooden silhouettes of the Canadian Goose are being cut. More than 175 have been ordered from throughout the county and the entranceway to almost every home in the town displays the residents' name on the black silhouette—a token of gratitude, in a way, to the noble bird which brings hundreds of hunters to the area each autumn.

Sumner is, by its own reckoning, "The Wild Goose Capital of the World." This year, for example, 125,000 Canadians had settled on the federal reserve, along with thousands of other geese and ducks.

"In Missouri Betterment we've been working on the tourist angle," said Mrs. Epperson. "Each year it was a case of looking only to next fall. So in 1968, to try to change that, our MCB project was the Fulbright Museum."

Sumner's most illustrious native son, Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark, attended the dedication of the museum in 1968. Memorabilia from Sumner's past includes a dress his grandmother wore.

Tourists who happen onto Sumner on Sundays during the fall are treated to the delicious homemake products of The Pioneer Kitchen, another MCB project. While women volunteers cook and serve a smorgasbord, including homemade breads and jellies, the men distribute tickets for seating, serve as ushers and even wash the dishes.

Both the museum and The Pioneer Kitchen were among the factors considered when state judges made their on-site inspection of Sumner. The museum figured prominently in the town's Missouri Sesquicentennial festivities last April.

The state citation applauded the town for "presenting the picture of total civic involvement, long-range plans and successful observance of Missouri's Sesquicentennial."

Mrs. Epperson explained that candidate communities must document at least two projects and their "awareness," or involvement.

Proceeds from such MCB projects as the museum and kitchen go into community betterment—like the Sumner Community Park, a pretty expanse on the western edge of town which until two years ago was a corn field. The grassy stretch now is broken by a concrete basketball court and a community center, which from the outside could be mistaken for a modern ranch-style house.

Inside the center, which includes tables and a huge brick fireplace for anyone's use, an elderly man was repairing a broken window. "When something's gotta be done, everyone's gotta pitch in," he said.

He was Frank Wanamaker, a retired farmer, Mrs. Epperson said after stepping outside again. He is living comfortably, but spends much of his time riding around the community looking for ways to "pitch in."

It's the same with Russell Smart, a retired grocer, who rides around town in late afternoon hauling a wagon with his tractor and picking up trash and brush.

Mayor Bloss, another example, is 76. He doesn't want to run for the office again in April "because my duties as street commissioner are getting to be too much."

When DeWeese was tapped as chairman of MCB six years ago, he had retired as manager of a grain company which was sold to a co-operative. "After that," he recalled, "there was very little to do. But before I knew it, they had me as chairman of MCB."

"Some people don't like MCB," Mrs. Epperson said, "but they're a very small minority."

Wouldn't community betterment be considerably easier in a town the size of Sumner?

Mrs. Epperson thinks not:

"The trouble in a small town is you know everyone and you're afraid of hurting people. You got to make sure everybody gets credit. And if MCB is working on one end of town, we better not forget the other end."

One young mother, who said she wasn't involved in any MCB projects, readily conceded in regard to Mrs. Epperson: "When she wants something done, it usually gets done."

This is a remote, once sleepy rural setting gone crazy with activity. Its people would wince at the analogy, but they have achieved, in some respects, the loftiest ideals of hippie communalism.

The church is registered as Methodist, but "we tell new ministers not to step on any toes," Mrs. Epperson said.

"We want all denominations to feel welcome."

She sees Sumner this way:

"We don't get any gifts or grants. It's all just hard work. When the need arises, the people respond. Everybody pitches in with food for dinner at the community house, for example, when there's a funeral and relatives come visiting."

Upheavals in the World Balance of Power

By DON OAKLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Human history is much like geological history.

Just as mountains and plateaus thrust themselves up and decay, so have various peoples and cultures risen above the landscape of their times, only to sink back eventually into the flatness of obscurity. All is restlessness, constant change.

Oakley

Nor is change necessarily slow and gradual in either case. The earth is still young enough to be capable of violent eruptions and cataclysmic upheavals which suddenly and profoundly alter the state of things. Violence and suddenness certainly seem to characterize human history.

But just as natural forces may build for decades or centuries to produce an earthquake that lasts a matter of seconds, the tremors and temblors that rock human history are also the product of strains and imbalances built up over the years.

And in human as well as geological terms, equilibrium is only temporary. New strains immediately begin building up. Nothing is permanent.

We are going through a period of earthquake changes now in human affairs. Indeed, for most of this century we have been living astride a veritable San Andreas fault of history and we are currently experiencing another of what geologists call a "swarm" of temblors.

To many people, the entry of Communist China into the United Nations and the explusion of the Nationalist Chinese government of Taiwan was a sudden and alarming event.

Yet much as we may dislike the new scenery we see, we know that the upward thrusting of China is only a response to underlying reality.

Mainland China has more than 700 million people. It cannot help but be a force in world affairs. The scramble of so many nations, including all of the major allies of the United States, to open diplomatic and economic relations with China proves how artificial and how strained was the situation which prevailed for some two decades.

The world is now trying to adjust to the aftershocks of this new state of affairs. In this country, the Senate does not know quite what it wants our foreign policy to be. A realignment, possibly a drastic one, of the major powers is shaping up.

China, says Industry Week, wants to industrialize but has been unable to. It distrusts Russia, which withdrew its technical aid in the 1960s, and thus has only one obvious source for development assistance — the United States.

Other observers believe that the Japanese, whose world has been turned upside down by President Nixon's minor trade war with them and his rapprochement with China, will be forced to draw closer to their ancient enemy.

Likewise, in an equal and opposite reaction, Russia appears anxious to increase commercial ties with the United States and Western Europe. And the latter, with the addition of Britain to the Common Market, promises to emerge as an economic force on a par with the United States and U.S.S.R.

But nothing that happens as a result of these realignments will happen suddenly, out of a clear blue sky.

People who live in earthquake belts welcome minor tremors. They know that these energy-releasing adjustments in the earth's crust decrease the likelihood of a major shock. It is when a fault zone has been quiet for a long period that the situation is the most precarious.

We must also understand and adapt to inevitable political realignments. Any attempt to pen up historical forces, to ignore or resist change, to pretend that any status quo is permanent, only increases the possibility of a major cataclysm — like a world war.

Export Potentials For Smaller Firms

Misconceptions as to America's world trade role seem to be the order of the day.

There was, of course, the big one—that the United States, as the No. 1 exporter of manufactured goods, could rely on a consistently favorable balance of trade to minimize the over-all unfavorable balance of payments, surplus trading dollars in large part offsetting drains in other areas such as tourism and military expenditures abroad.

Wrong, we now know with our slip to No. 2 exporter (West Germany now leads), into a deficit trading position and the retreat behind the new economics' 10 per cent import charge while we figure out how to try harder.

And then there is the one about international trade being an extremely high stakes game open only, or largely, to the IBMs, Boeings and similar industrial giants.

Wrong again. Three out of every five American firms currently exporting profitably, it turns out, are small concerns, businesses employing fewer than 100. In terms of total dollar business abroad, these smaller exporters do not, of course, similarly overshadow the very large operations with their much greater volumes and resources. But earnings do add up to a significant chunk of our overall export income and make expansion of this segment of the overseas market of prime importance in efforts to reverse the deficit trading trend.

Many more—literally thousands—of smaller firms could be exporting. They do not for a variety of reasons. They are unaware that a market abroad exists for them, or they do not know how to go about entering it or they feel they lack the personnel and organizational resources to get involved in what they see as an expensive, complicated world market.

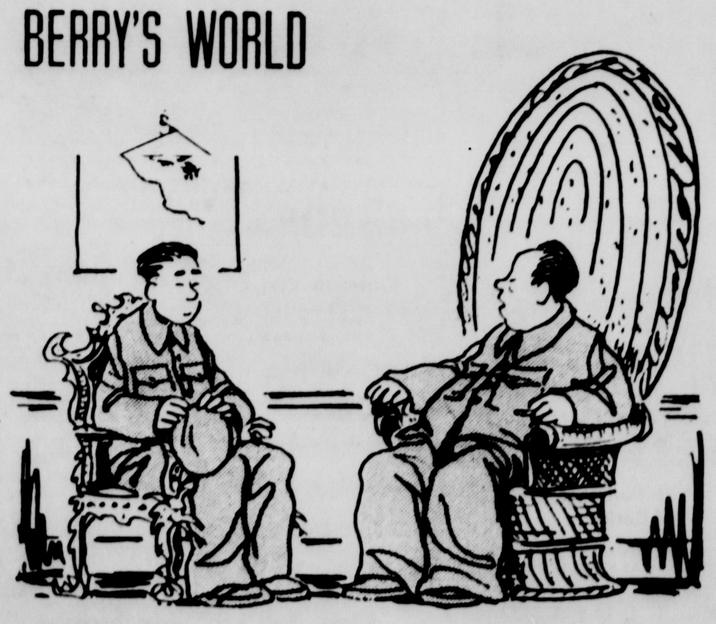

These also can be misconceptions and there is an organization which is actively seeking to dispel them. The Bureau of International Commerce in the Commerce Department makes it its business to encourage American business activity abroad, with emphasis on the small company.

Bureau services generally include pinpointing the most promising market for a product exhibition, extensive promotion and arrangement of shipping and display details. For this, the small firm pays a participation fee of around $1,000, supplies the items for exhibit and its own representative.

Business was brisk in 1970, the bureau reports, with more than 2,500 U.S. firms participating in 75 international exhibitions, but it is looking for much more.

Small firms thinking big on the export market can be a very profitable way of trying harder.

Ex-Nazis Slip Past The Administration

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, who made his name in politics by attacking the Democrats for being "soft on Communists," is showing signs himself of a little softness on Nazis.

We recently reported that he invited an ex-Nazi to the White House for a prayer session and that he sent a letter of tribute to a notorious anti-Jewish editor.

The White House issued a pained public statement protesting that "President Nixon has never condoned and does not condone anti-Semitism in any form." We certainly agree. Nixon is no more anti-Semitic nor pro-Nazi than Harry Truman and Dean Acheson were pro-Communist.

But men with histories of Nazi sympathies have managed to endear themselves to the Nixon administration. Here's the record, which is worse than we originally reported:

— We identified Dr. Joseph Pauco, a prominent GOP adviser and White House guest, as a pro-Nazi propagandist in Slovakia during World War II. We cited recent public statements to show that he still worships the memory of the Nazi puppet in Slovakia, Joseph Tiso. The Anti-Defamation League confirmed our charges with additional evidence from their files. The Republican National Committee quickly accepted Pauco's resignation. Yet at this writing, five weeks after our revelations, he is still an official, unsalaried adviser to Small Business Administrator Tom Kleppe. Pauco makes recommendations on small business loans and other SBA matters in his home state of Pennsylvania.

— We reported that both President Nixon and Vice President Agnew sent warm tributes to Geno Szebedinsky, editor of the Hungarian-language newspaper Magyarsag which foams with anti-Semitism. Although the President wrote Szebedinsky that his "distinguished career...is well known to me," we are convinced Nixon had absolutely no knowledge of the editor's anti-Semitic reputation. Both Nixon and Agnew signed the tributes purely as political routine. Yet someone familiar with Szebedinsky and his views was close enough to the White House to arrange for him to be honored. And the White House, despite its public assurance that the President doesn't condone anti-Semitism, has yet to repudiate his letter to Szebedinsky.

— President Nixon not only prayed with Pauco at the White House but also invited another World War II extremist, Ivan Docheff, to the White House. Docheff acknowledged to us that he was the leader of the National Legion in his native Bulgaria. This was a youth organization characterized as "fascist" by the moderate Bulgarian National Committee here. Docheff admitted it was a right-wing group but said he was "100 per cent anti-Communist, not a Nazi." Docheff's picture at the White House with Nixon and Agnew, printed in the Bulgarian-language paper Borba, raised cries of outrage from moderate Bulgarian-Americans.

— Laszlo Pasztor, the industrious head of the GOP ethnic groups, was never asked about his wartime activities in Hungary by the four GOP officials who interviewed him for his job. As it happens, Pasztor belonged to a Hitler-youth-style group under the notorious Arrowcross party until he was 21. Although he never joined the adult party, he served it as a junior diplomat in Berlin under the vicious anti-Semitic Szalasi regime. Pasztor insists he never took part in anti-Semitic activities and says in his GOP party post, he has tried to weed out the right-wing extremists from the Republican ethnic groups. He spoke feelingly of those problems for two hours with my associate Les Whitten. At one point, Pasztor asked wearily: "What kind of guys did I inherit?"

Peace Corps Woes — The Peace Corps' hopeful effort to enlist Mexican-American volunteers has largely failed. Of 13 Mexican-Americans trained for service in Peru, eight have quit. They had been sent to Peru to help build potato production, but a bumper crop made their work superfluous. Peace Corps efforts to keep them in other programs failed, and the eight disillusioned Chicanos have now left the Peace Corps. Elsewhere in Peru, volunteers were able to thwart reported efforts by director Joe Blatchford to install an old fraternity brother, Doug Burck, as country director. A compromise by Blatchford has forestalled resignation threats of about 100 of the 200 volunteers in Peru. Less than a half-dozen have actually quit because of the squabble.

Giant Killer — Back in April, 1970 we wrote of the David-and-Goliath struggle between Federal Trade Commission lawyer Daniel Kane and the gigantic Koppers Co. Kane has accused Koppers of killing competition in resorcinol, a chemical used in tires, explosives and dyes. While Kane fought the case, his FTC boss, then Rufus "Duke" Wilson, had been meeting privately with Koppers' attorney and discussing the case. Wilson has now retired from the FTC, and Kane recently won a tough consent settlement from Koppers. In it, the firm promises to void its "exclusive" resorcinol supply contracts, and contracts running more than a year, give up any plans to buy out resorcinol competitors without FTC okay and block price discriminating.

Politics Defeats Principle

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives has shown us how to separate the men from the politicians: just challenge them with issues of great public emotion, like busing school children or prayer in the schools.

Rowan

The men stand firm for what is just and decent and wise in the long haul; the politicians run with the howling mob, mindful of nothing more than what will win them votes in the next election.

In approving $24 billion for education last week, the House granted President Nixon's request for $1.5 billion to help school districts desegregate. But the House said in many ways that a majority of its members don't really want any integration—not if it must be achieved by busing, or any other technique that makes constituents unhappy.

There can be no doubt that busing is an intensely emotional issue among whites, and even among blacks when it is imposed in such a way that only black children wind up being bused.

So feverish was the House response to the public clamor that time after time more than 230 members approved amendments which:

—Barred the use of federal funds for busing students or teachers to carry out racial desegregation.

—Severely restricted the federal government in ordering school boards to employ busing as a desegregation tool.

—Declared that no busing order by any U.S. district court is to go into effect until all appeals have expired—meaning delays for as much as the entire period some students are in high school.

The latter amendment is patently ridiculous. Where the courts rule that constitutional rights have been violated, and a federal judge orders relief, the House of Representatives has no power whatsoever to say whether and when the judge's order is to go into effect.

Unless and until the new "strict constructionist" Supreme Court reverses the 1954 decision that segregated schools violate the constitution, that House amendment is just a phony, cynical ploy by certain congressmen who are trying to placate the angry people back home.

What is disturbing is not the amendments themselves. School districts that must bus will find a way to buy buses and pay drivers. They will pay money out of a local pocket and put federal money in the other pocket and who will ever swear the difference?

The dismaying thing is that the howls from their districts have become so worrisome that House members would now, in effect, seek to repeal the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Or, as Rep. Henry Reuss (D.-Wis.) put it, try to repeal the 1954 Supreme Court decision, which the Congress cannot do.

This House debate reminded me of the ardent Louisiana segregationist who said to me in New Orleans in 1956: "We're going to get that court decision reversed, just you wait and see. Just wait till they try to integrate up North, and you'll find that whites there don't want to go to school with nigras anymore than we do. You'll see."

Now I see. I also see how so many blacks in the ghettos can believe that genocide is possible in this country. When so many members of the House will buckle under the passions of the hour, anything is possible.

★ ★ ★

It is safe to say that scores of members of the House rarely pray to anyone holier than their bankers, and these are probably foremost among those who attempted to prove their piety by pushing for a constitutional amendment to permit non-denominational prayer in public schools. It was defeated Monday.

The public gets pretty emotional over religion, which is why this nation's founders built constitutional safeguards against either government officials or an overly sanctimonious public community forcing a certain religion, or any kind of religion, on U.S. citizens.

The critical question is whether we want now to wipe away those safeguards and invest elements of government, like school boards, with the authority to make religious policy.

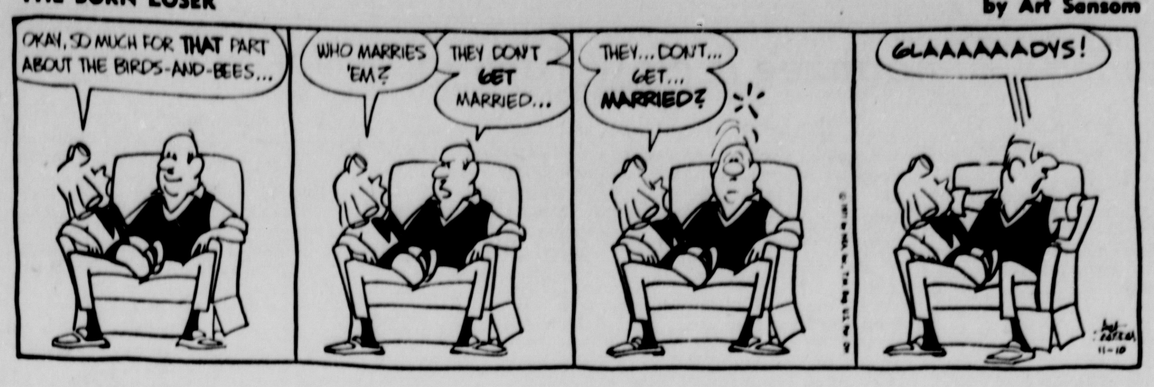

Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders say they oppose wiping away the constitutional safeguards against the encroachment of the state in religious matters—even if that first government imposition is just an innocuous prayer "to whom it may concern." Certainly it is not impiety or an unconcern for the moral fiber of our children that causes the church leaders to oppose the prayer amendment. They simply know a danger to freedom of worship when they see one.

Let us salute those House members who did not cave in to the passions over busing that rage in their districts, and to those who voted against the prayer amendment. They surely felt that re-election was not worth the price of setting the stage for more racial division and strife in America, or of undermining that long-cherished constitutional protection of religious freedom.

Opening lead—♦ Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Stayman convention is in almost universal use by duplicate players. North and South were using it, but North decided with 4-4-3-2 distribution and honors in all four suits he would forget about looking for a 4-4 spade fit and raise his partner directly to the no-trump game.

South wasn't happy about the no-trump contract when he saw the dummy. There were nine easy tricks, but it was apparent if spades broke 3-2 there would be 10 easy tricks for a spade declarer.

He noted further that without a diamond opening a no-trump declarer would have time to set up a club trick to score four no-trump.

All this thought would be unnecessary at rubber bridge, but this was match-point duplicate. South decided to go after the overtrick. He ducked one diamond and won the second. Then he ran off three spade tricks to see if that suit was divided 3-2. It was!

South's next play was dummy's five of clubs. West won with the ace, not the king and led another diamond. The last diamond stopper was gone but South did not cash out. Instead he played a second club from dummy. Down one at a cinch contract!

North didn't approve of South's play and expressed himself about it. However, when the scores were tabulated, down one at three no-trump was a zero, while three no-trump made on the nose would have been worth ½ match point only. Every other table had played at and made four spades. North's bidding, not South's play was at fault.

What do you do now?

A—Bid six diamonds. Your partner surely holds one ace and you want to be declarer in case he has two small in the other suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five diamonds he has bid five clubs over your four spades. What do you do now?

Midsouth Hospitals Closing

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rising costs and consolidation are cited as reasons for the closing of 22 hospitals in the Midsouth in the past five years, according to a report from the Memphis Regional Medical Program.

A spokesman for the program said many closings are part of a positive trend toward consolidation and more effective services, though he said rising costs have forced the closing of some institutions.

The 112 hospitals remaining in the 75-county area are analyzed in the program's "Mid-South Hospital Inventory." The territory covered includes parts of Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The Memphis medical center dominates the region and many outlying areas offer a low level of services and face critical manpower shortages, the report states.

Rising in importance, the report says, the subregional medical centers in Jackson and Union City, Tenn., Jonesboro and Pargould, Ark. Tupelo and Oxford, Miss., Murray, Ky., and Sikeston and Kennett, Mo.

OFFICIALS DOMINATE

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A poll of 7,310 registered representatives to the Southern Baptist convention in St. Louis last June showed that a whopping 84.4 per cent of them were members of a church staff, the wife of a church staff member or denominational worker.

Trained Chimpanzee Is Now Talking to Herself

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Washoe," a female chimpanzee who already holds the chimp championship for talking to humans using sign language, has been credited with additional powers; she talks to herself with sign language.

Washoe, aged 6, is the most advanced of 23 chimpanzee pupils being progressively taught the sign language by two psychologists at the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

Washoe has a "vocabulary" of about 200 words, and an ability to construct simple sentences, using sign-language taught by Drs. R. Allen Gardner and Beatrice Gardner, comparative psychologists at the University of Nevada, Reno.

They started teaching Washoe the sign language about four years ago—using the stereotyped gestures of the American Sign Language—ASL—employed by the deaf in the United States.

Summarizing Washoe's progress under the Gardner's tutelage—up to the time they apparently sent her off to Oklahoma for "graduate" work toward her chimp Ph.D.—the National Science Foundation says she ultimately "even talked to herself when she thought no one was watching, much as young children talk to themselves when they think no one is listening.

"'Washoe climb tree!' she would sign to herself—then up the tree she would go," Dr. Gardner observes.

The NSF, one of the government and private organizations that has supported the Gardners' work, also said in its report:

"The Gardners' work is still controversial, points out Dr. Henry S. Odbert, director of NSF's Psychobiology Program . . .

"Many scientists," he said, "are unconvinced that what Washoe has achieved is really language in some scientifically-accepted sense, but . . . others, who began skeptically, have been convinced."
